

Phnom Penh Liquor Agents Among Braces for First Trial Witnesses Red Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Enemy troops severed two more major highways out of Phnom Penh today, cutting traffic between the threatened capital and Saigon and isolating a large Cambodian force at the military headquarters town of Kompong Cham.

Highway 1, leading to Saigon, was cut by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops about 25 miles south of Phnom Penh, said travelers who tried to use the road.

Potentially more serious was the cutoff on a second highway near Skoun, 38 miles northeast of the capital. This is the only land route to the provincial and regional military headquarters at Kompong Cham, where two Cambodian regiments are based.

In Phnom Penh, the population waited tensely to see if a threatened attack by the enemy would materialize.

A Buddhist monk who said he escaped from North Vietnamese troops at Kompong Speu told a news conference the Communists boasted they would attack Phnom Penh today, three months to the day after Premier Lon Nol and his associates deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state.

Several diplomats said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong already had scored a propaganda victory by frightening the city's population. Meanwhile, Phnom Penh was quiet.

A military spokesman reported fighting in Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, and said South Vietnamese helicopters and gunships were flying in support of the ground troops.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Liquor agents from Mississippi and Alabama were expected to be among the first witnesses today in the state of Missouri's ouster suit against Sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot County.

Complaints by the southern liquor agents led to an investigation by Missouri officials that prompted Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to seek Orton's ouster on grounds he permitted wholesale violations of state liquor and gambling laws.

Special Commissioner Ray Weightman, a former circuit court judge from Maryville, is hearing the case for the Missouri supreme court.

Weightman allowed the state Wednesday to amend its suit to accuse Orton of conspiring to arrange the slaying of a former Caruthersville man, Bud Cook.

Mississippi and Alabama officials complained that when they visited the Southeast Missouri county looking for the source of whisky being shipped to dry counties in their states they were threatened with arrest by Orton and his deputies.

A three-month investigation by Missouri authorities culminated in a series of raids by state officials on bars accused of selling beer or liquor without licenses and of other violations of liquor laws.

Danforth filed his ouster petition with the Missouri Supreme Court in January.

As a result of the state probe, liquor licenses of the Casanova Lounge, Eddie and Jay's and The Sportster in Caruthersville were revoked.

Circumstances of the alleged murder conspiracy against Cook, who operates a produce truck, have not been disclosed by the state.

Cook and his attorney were spectators at Wednesday's opening session of the trial. Cook has declined to comment to newsmen.

Another Danforth motion pending alleges Orton participated in vote fraud by arranging transportation of persons from one polling place to another to vote more than once and paid them off in money and liquor.

The state argued successfully Wednesday for the replacement of Wesley Mayo, Orton's chief deputy, as court bailiff. Weightman ordered that Mayo be replaced by a Missouri Highway Patrol Trooper today. BJ25 and June 18

$44,080 Grant

To Encourage Economic Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Economic Development Administration has approved a $44,080 grant to the Bootheel Economic Development Council to help pay for research, planning, counseling and promotional activities aimed at economic growth.

The Bootheel Council serves Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Announcement of the grant was made by Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Wednesday.

The grant will be used primarily for salaries of administrative personnel, according to Phillip Shelton, manager of the Council at Malden.

The Economic Development Administration assigns priorities to applications for economic development.

Judge James Sickal presided. Persons fined for driving while intoxicated were William Vaughn, $100; H. K. Purvis, $100; Olan Stewart, $56; Billie D. Wyatt, $56, and Eugene Harris, $106.

Wyatt also was fined $25 on two careless driving charges. Ray and Tom Flippo, and John Burton were fined $31 each for gambling.

Gary Martin was fined $15 for peace disturbance. Wayne Courtney was fined $11 for public intoxication.

Two Arrests

Police report Katie McCauley, 112 Lincoln, has been charged with careless driving.

Zilburn Jackman, 324 North, is charged with public intoxication.

Unemployment Claims Rise in Sikeston Area

With the national unemployment rate reaching a high of five per cent more people are filing unemployment insurance claims.

New claims started in the Sikeston area in May, 1970, reached the 1,324 mark, as compared to 765 new claims for the same period last year, said Leon Garnet, manager of the state employment service.

Continued claims are also up. Garnet said that the average unemployment insurance payment is $47. How long an unemployed person receives benefits is determined by length of former employment and the amount of wages he received.

Benefits can be received only if the business for which the wage earner worked was covered by the unemployment security law of Missouri.

Under this law, those persons employed in agriculture, horticulture, or non-profit organizations are not covered by unemployment insurance.

In order for a person to file a valid claim, he must have worked in the Missouri under a covered employer, and must have earned $15 in each of the 17 weeks during Missouri's base period. At present Missouri's base period is 1969.

"Our claim load has been considerably heavier in April and May than previously," commented Mr. A. J. Layton, claims supervisor.

Not only are more people filing unemployment insurance claims, but, surprisingly, more people are being placed in job positions.

"During the first four months of 1970, 2,072 persons applied for work at our office. We had 598 completed placements, and that's a high number," commented Garnet.

"Usually, we find it difficult to place more than one-fourth of our applicants. Remember, that is 598 new workers, and the jobs have to be available," he continued.

"A sizeable number of young folks are looking for summer or part-time employment now, but, lacking job experience, they have problems getting jobs," Garnet said.

Appliances Stolen from Topp Home

Police reported a refrigerator, electric range, dish washer and an electric heater were stolen during the past three months from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Topp, 400 Tanner.

The theft was reported Wednesday. The Topp's have been away.

Entry apparently was made through a sliding patio door.

Bike, Hub Caps

Stolen in Sikeston

Mrs. L. L. Leroux, 521 Malcolm, reported to police this morning her son's bicycle had been stolen.

Reggie Dodd, 423 William, reported to police Tuesday four hub caps were stolen from his car.

Family Planning

Application Made

MALDEN — The Bootheel comprehensive health council has endorsed a family planning application to be made for this area.

When funded, the grant, for $35,000 will be used to provide family planning services in the district for six months.

This will be a pilot program. It would be the first research and demonstration grant to be made for this work in the United States.

Tax Return Processing Completed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri income tax returns have been processed and final tax payments were deposited Wednesday.

James E. Schaffner, director of revenue, said the job was done in record time. He asked for an apology from politicians who charged that the tax work by his department had been delayed.

"Today's final deposit totaled $1,144,242," Schaffner said, "and income tax deposits for the fiscal year have totaled $163,272,067."

The department still has to audit the returns and make the necessary refunds," he said. About 1.8 million tax returns are involved.

The task was completed in record time, "the earliest date in the history of the department," according to Schaffner. The work was expedited so records for the fiscal year ending June 30 would reflect tax revenue owed to and received by the state.

During the recent special legislative session, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, and others charged revenue was being withheld deliberately in order to make the state's financial picture look bad.

Sentence Suspended in Mother Beating Case

BENTON — A six-month suspended jail sentence was imposed Wednesday in magistrate court against Phillip Gardner, 51, of Oran, who pleaded guilty earlier this year to beating his mother.

Gardner appeared before Judge M. E. Montgomery yesterday on another charge of beating his mother. His mother appeared on his behalf, saying her son didn't know what he was doing when he beat her. She pleaded that he be set free. The judge did not follow her recommendation. Gardner pleaded innocent to the new charge. The case was continued.

Herbert W. Brown, 104 Sixth, Sikeston, waived preliminary hearings on two felony charges of writing bad checks. He is scheduled to appear June 25 in circuit court.

Living Cost Rise Slows Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rise in living costs of four-tenths of one per cent last month added to the nation's worst inflationary spiral in twenty years but a government official said there has been a "significant" slowing of the pace of price hikes in recent months.

Costs of all major categories were up, with transportation and clothing posting the largest price hikes in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The bureau figured the May rise at five-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis for the fourth straight month, because food prices rose instead of dropping as usual in May.

"The rate has come down from the six-tenths of one per cent rate of November, December, and January," said Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the bureau.

"It has come down to five-tenths of one per cent monthly changes, which is significant," he said of the past four months.

He added that the four-tenths actual rise in May was more significant to consumers because it reflected prices they had to pay, while the seasonal figure of five-tenths was of more interest to economic analysts.

The May increase boosted the government's Consumer Price Index to 134.6, meaning it cost $134.6 last month for every $100 worth of typical family spending in the 1967-69 period on which the index is based. The four-tenths of one per cent rise was the smallest since last January, when it was also four-tenths but figured seasonally as a six-tenths rise.

The bureau also reported that some $5 million rank and file workers gained $1.05 a week to an average pay check of $18.72 weekly in May because of a two-cent hourly rise in pay and a slightly longer work week.

The bureau said food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent, housing and medical care five-tenths of one per cent each, clothing six-tenths of one per cent and transportation eight-tenths of one per cent.

The report said the May rise was less than April because of smaller price hikes for most services and for commodities other than food.

Prices of food and consumer

durables goods accelerated from April, it said.

The May report said living costs were 6.2 per cent above a year earlier, continuing the more than 6 per cent annual rate of climb that has prevailed for more than a year.

"Charges for consumer services in May showed their smallest monthly rise since late last year. Price increases for nearly all the important groups of services were noticeably smaller than in recent months," the bureau said.

"Used car prices rose sharply in May, 5.3 per cent, and were largely responsible for the one per cent contraseasonal increases for durables. House prices rose more rapidly than in recent months and were almost important in the advance. New car prices declined seasonally," it said.

"Food prices, which usually decline in May, were up," the report said.

"Prices of poultry and eggs fell less than seasonally and prices of fruits, vegetables and dairy products rose more than usual for May," the report added.

But prices of restaurant meals and other goods consumed away from home slowed from April's pace, it said.

About 128,200 workers with cost-of-living clauses in their labor contracts will receive wage increases based on the May report, figured over varying periods of time.

These include some 72,000 aerospace workers who will receive an eight cent pay an hour hike for the past year's rise in the living cost index.

Another 2,000 workers will get increases ranging from 8 to 23 cents based on the price hikes over the year and some 2,000 machinery industry workers will get 9 cents for the rise in prices since last November.

Other workers who will get increases ranging from three to six cents an hour include those in farm equipment, chemical, shipbuilding, bakery and retail sales industries.

Another 43,000 workers with cost-of-living escalator clauses will get no further pay increases because of the May increase, because they have already reached the maximum in cost-of-living pay provided in their contracts.

Egypt Admits Higher Than Usual Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cairo admitted today that Israeli artillery killed 15 Egyptian soldiers and wounded seven Wednesday along the Suez Canal. It was one of the highest Egyptian military tolls reported since the 1967 war, though higher civilian casualties have been claimed.

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said the Israelis opened fire in the morning and kept it up intermittently into the afternoon. There was no report on this action from Israel.

Egypt struck back today with an air raid on two Israeli fortifications along the central sector of the canal, the Israeli command announced. It said there were no Israeli casualties.

It was the second Egyptian air strike across the canal in as many days. The Israelis fly daily sorties against Egyptian positions on the west side of the blocked waterway, and the Israeli planes attacked throughout the day Wednesday. Cairo claimed one plane was shot down, but the Israelis said all returned safely.

The Israeli command also reported that its troops killed three Arab infiltrators Wednesday night on the occupied Golan Heights of Syria. Tel Aviv said the infiltrators carried AK47 rifles, mines and sabotage materials. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Arab guerrillas in Lebanon said Wednesday that they had killed 28 Israeli troops in ground actions over the past three days. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in a communiqué issued in Beirut that 10 of the Israelis were killed by mines on a military road at Mt. Hermon, north of the Golan Heights. There was no confirmation of the claim from the Israelis.

King Hussein of Jordan told a news conference in Amman that the fighting last week between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops was the most anxious and difficult time of his life.

When military strongman President Juan Carlos Onganía was forced to resign in Argentina on June 8, it was by no great popular rebellion. True, the general had become vastly unpopular during four years of rule, but when he was ousted it was his former military comrades who made the decision that he had to go.

Onganía himself had been named president following a military coup in 1966 that ousted elected President Arturo Illia. Shortly after he took over, Onganía fired the elected governors of Argentina's 22 provinces and appointed political allies to replace them. He dissolved the congress and started rule by presidential decree. And, since the assassination of a powerful labor leader about a year ago, Argentina has been ruled under a state of siege.

Argentina is the rule rather than the exception in Latin America. While Fidel Castro holds total control over Cuba, military strongmen also hold sway in Peru, Haiti, Brazil, Panama, Bolivia, Paraguay and Nicaragua.

Peru is governed by Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, who took power in a military coup in 1968, ousting constitutionally elected President Fernando Belaunde Terry. Since he has taken power, Velasco has nationalized a number of industrial concerns, including several owned by American firms, and has leveled repressive measures against the Peruvian press. The Castro government in Cuba, while not yet ready to establish relations with Peru, has said it is keeping a sympathetic eye on the government's "revolutionary methods."

Haiti is run by Dr. Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier with an iron fist and country-wide fear of his secret police, nicknamed the "Ton-ton Macoute," or Machete Uncles. In a recent abortive coup attempt, a number of coast guard vessels fired shells at the presidential palace in the rundown capital of Port-au-Prince before fleeing to Sea. Asked what he thought led to the short-lived rebellion, Duvalier roared that the dissident coast guardsmen probably were crazy.

Brazil's leader is Gen. Emilio Garrastazu Médici, who was named by military leaders in October, 1969, to replace the ailing former president, retired Army Marshall Arthur da Costa e Silva. The idea of an elective presidency was laid to rest in Brazil in April, 1964, when Joao Goulart was ousted in a military coup. Rebels against the military regime in Brazil have complained they are subject to brutal torture if they are captured by the authorities.

In Panama, the recently installed president and head of the military junta is Demetrio B. Lakas. But the real strongman behind the scenes is Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera, who was ousted and regained power within 24 hours last December. Torrijos has forbidden exit from Panama for 10 men who advocated a return to constitutional rule.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia is the strongman in Bolivia. He took over in a bloodless coup last September after Luis Adolfo Siles succeeded former President Rene Barrientos Ortuño, who was killed in a plane crash. Under the Ovando government, American-owned operations have been seized by the government.

In Paraguay, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner has ruled since he seized power in 1954. He was re-elected in 1958, 1963 and 1968. In the latter two elections, opposition candidates were allowed for the first time since 1928. The Roman Catholic Church in Paraguay has accused Stroessner of running a dictatorship and has called on him to bring political prisoners to trial and restore freedom of the press, which is nonexistent in Paraguay.

Nicaragua, ruled by Gen. Anastasio Somoza Debayle, is another Latin American nation where there is no freedom of the press.

The House then amended the bill to create an independent, self-supporting U. S. Postal Service, raise pay 8 per cent, and permit each worker to decide whether to join a union.

Opponents of the ban against compulsory union membership said it would throw the balance of power in pay negotiations to management and supercede state block reform of the Post Office union laws.

But Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said the balance of power would be thrown to the unions which with compulsory membership would have an "enormous political clout" over management in pay negotiations.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said the House-approved ban "for the first time will reach the long arm of the federal government" into the 39 states that permit compulsory unionism and exempt mailmen from state laws.

The vote on the amendment by Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., was 179 to 95.

HOG BOG

After three and a half decades and billions of dollars, the U.S. farm subsidy program has evolved into a seemingly impenetrable economic bog leading nowhere. Some of our readers may already have read one or more versions of the "not-raising-hogs" story which has been around for some time. It relates that a farmer wrote to the Department of Agriculture, telling them that a neighbor of his had just received a $1,000 check from the government for not raising hogs.

"This is to inform you," (so the letter goes) "that I am going into the not-raising-hog business. But I need to know: what is the best kind of farm not to raise hogs on, and what are the best kind of hogs not to raise? I would prefer not to raise Poland Chinas, but if that is not a good breed to raise, I will be happy not to raise Berkshires or Durocs."

"The hardest work in this business, as far as I can see, is keeping an inventory on how many hogs I haven't raised. My neighbor has been raising hogs for 20 years and the best he ever made was $400 until this year when he got $1,000 for not raising 50 hogs. I figure to operate on a small scale at first, starting with not raising 100 hogs which will get me $2,000 and then holding myself down to not raising 4,000 hogs which means I will get $80,000. Now another thing: these hogs I will not raise will not eat 100,000 bushels of corn. How much will you pay me for not raising the 100,000 bushels of corn which I will not feed the hogs I am not raising?"

The story should be funny, but many representatives in Washington don't think it is. Last year farm subsidy cost the American taxpayer over $3.5 billion. But although there were 6 million farms in 1940, there are only 3 million today, many of them having gone broke. Although an estimated 20 million people have migrated from the farm to the cities, there are still 14 million poor people in rural areas. And although thousands of farmers today barely make ends meet, one farm operation in Texas was paid $942,000 last year for not raising cotton. We agree with the American Farm Bureau that a way out of the farm subsidy morass must be found.

HEALTH CARE CRISIS

The American Medical Association will hold its 119th annual meeting in Chicago for five days beginning Sunday (June 21).

Some Americans would almost rather die than get sick. For large numbers of families, serious illness can mean instant poverty. Good medical care for others is practically nonexistent. Private medical plans and such government programs as Medicare and Medicaid have helped ease the problem, but pressure is mounting for a national health insurance program.

President Nixon opposed compulsory health insurance during the 1968 campaign, saying: "I do not want to lower the quality of medical care in the United States." Since taking office, however, he has described the nation's health-care problems as "much worse than I realized." And Robert H. Finch, former Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, has predicted that before the end of the decade the nation will have some form of national health insurance.

Several plans are under consideration. Even the American Medical Association—traditionally opposed to such plans as "socialism"—has its own Medi-credit scheme. This plan, the only one in the form of an actual bill, provides primarily for a sliding scale of income tax credits for the purchase of private health insurance.

On June 10 the Nixon administration sent Congress a revamped version of its welfare reform plan replacing Medicaid with a national health insurance program for the poor. That same day, Rep. Lawrence Hogan (R-Md.) introduced a bill creating a catastrophic illness—or extended care—insurance pool to enable people to buy insurance against such calamities.

An aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) told Editorial Research Reports that Kennedy plans to introduce in a few weeks a bill that would cover almost everyone. Known as the Reuther plan, after the United Auto Workers Union leader, it would be financed by Social Security taxes and general federal revenues. Rates for services would be set by H.E.W. and outside experts.

Finch has called existing medical care programs in this country "a cottage industry." Although Americans are the wealthiest people on the world, they are far from the healthiest. The common health indices—infant mortality and life expectancy rates—show the United States is lagging behind many Western European nations. Indeed, the life expectancy of Americans has been actually declining slightly despite the vast sums being spent on the nation's system of health care. The nation's health bill now stands at $60.3 billion a year. Wide gaps have appeared in the government and private health plans now in existence. An estimated 24 million Americans under 65 years of age have no health insurance at all. About 61 million have no coverage for in-hospital medical expenses. Perhaps 102 million have no insurance that will help pay for doctors' office visits.

Inflation has played a leading role in the health crisis. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that since 1964, the cost of a semi-private hospital room has soared 88 per cent. Since 1966, the year when Medicare was approved, the cost of medical treatment increased by 27 per cent.

Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, Assistant Secretary of H.E.W. for Health and Scientific Affairs, believes it may take six or seven years "before you could feel that you were anywhere near ready to tackle (national health insurance) without having a degree of chaos." Even so, the prognosis is that such a plan is on the way.

More and more truckers may soon be using a red triangle to warn other motorists of a stalled or disabled truck at the side of the road.

Recent tests conducted by the Department of Transportation indicate a triangular shape, covered with red, reflective material, is recognizable as an emergency warning device at far greater distances than commonly used "dot" reflector.

The all-steel advance-warning triangle is maintenance-free and virtually unbreakable. It requires no batteries, bulbs, flags or fuel, and thus offers an extra safety advantage for carriers hauling hazardous materials (explosives, flammable liquids, etc.). Both sides of each triangle arm are covered with red reflective sheeting which "bounces" headlight beams back to their source. The wide-angle characteristic of the reflective sheeting makes the triangular shape fully recognizable on curves and uneven grades, or when hastily put down along a roadway. A steel cross-brace insures stability in winds up to 40 mph.

The triangle folds to a compact size for storing when not in use. When needed, the driver of a stalled vehicle places one or more triangles by the side of the road, much as he would with flares. The triangles are visible to oncoming motorists at a distance of more than a quarter of a mile, day or night.

Use of these triangles is not limited to truckers alone. Their simplicity and dependability as a warning device should make them popular with individual motorists as well.

In addition to high visibility, the advance-warning triangle has the advantage of always having the same meaning. Triangular signs, as you know, warn you that a moving or movable hazard may be (or is) in your immediate area. A triangular sign always demands special and immediate alertness on your part.

Interstate systems and highways are dangerously engineered. Automobiles are unsafe at any speed. Traffic cops are never around to nail that idiot who passed you at breakneck speed. If you have an accident, it's not your fault. Right?

Wrong.
Statistics collected and published in a booklet by The Travelers Insurance Companies keep drivers on the hook. Their compilation of accident facts makes it clear that 1969's record-breaking toll of 56,500 killed and 4,700,000 injured is attributable to driver error. If you are eager to find a scapegoat, don't read it.

Insurance companies have been berating drivers for a long time. Their essential motive is profit: if the accident rate is cut, claims will be cut and so will the cost of their product.

In their booklet, Travelers takes a poke at highway engineers and auto manufacturers, but they conclude from all the appalling statistics that drivers are the ultimate culprits.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

Autumn is the season of the musician's discontent with low wages, overlong playing seasons and hectic travel schedules. Summer, in contrast, is a time to augment skimpy income in a relaxed, often outdoor setting. Summer is music festival time.

Although the summer solstice is three weeks distant, music festivals already are upon us, both in this country and abroad. Osaka, Japan, site of Expo '70, touched off a six-month marathon of opera and symphonic music as long ago as March 15. Since then, festivals have opened in Stockholm; Glyndebourne, England; and Flanders, Belgium, among other places. The Ojai, Calif., and Bath, England, summer music season began on Friday, June 5.

Since 1970 is the 200th birthday anniversary of Ludwig van Beethoven, it is not surprising that much of the music to be played this summer will be his. By no means all of the summer's musical activities are of the longhair variety. Popular singers such as Dionne Warwick and Jose Feliciano will make the rounds of outdoor concert halls throughout the country. And, as in past years, thousands of youngsters will attend music camps. The late American author Edith M. Thomas anticipated the current situation in a line written more than 50 years ago—"The God of Music dwelleth out of doors."

Saving The Passenger Trains

Over the past few months, we have written quite often on this page about the decline and fall of the passenger train in the United States. We regret to report that it is still declining—the Penn Central is now trying to cut the last link between New York City and the Midwest—but we are pleased to report that a bill passed by the Senate recently could reverse that trend. In fact, if the House sees fit to pass the bill at this session, the nation will be on its way a year from now toward having a respectable national railway network and a truly balanced transportation system.

The bill that passed the Senate would establish the National Railroad Passenger Corporation which would probably soon eliminate such names as Penn Central, Baltimore & Ohio, and Southern from the intercity passenger train business. The corporation would have authority to let the railroads on a national system (to be designated by the Secretary of Transportation) buy out of the obligation to provide intercity passenger service. After making these deals, the corporation itself would arrange routes, schedules and equipment, and would contract with the existing railroads to run the trains. It would have the obligation to provide good service wherever it operated and the opportunity to revitalize a badly needed method of transportation.

While we have a few doubts about some of the details of the bill, we think that this plan is the only thing in sight with a chance of keeping long-haul passenger trains in operation. The corporation is likely to end up running almost all of the non-commuter trains in the country from the Metroliners on the East Coast through the great trains that go from Chicago to the West and the South.

It would have the advantage of size which can be used to balance unprofitable runs off against profitable ones and which would provide a better base for advertising and promoting train travel. Perhaps more importantly, the corporation would be eager to operate good trains and to attract passengers.

Our doubts about the corporation turn mainly around the arrangements for financing it. The terms of the Senate bill are quite complex but they may let the railroads disburse too cheaply with their obligation to provide passenger service. Similarly, we are not sure that the 100 million dollars in grants and loans that the Federal Government would put up is enough to get the new corporation off to the flying start it would need.

We trust that the House of Representatives will look at these aspects closely, particularly in light of the billions of dollars of federal funds that have been poured into highways, airways, and waterways in recent years. Whatever the House should decide about these matters, however, we urge it to pass this bill at this session—the idea has the endorsement of the Administration as well as those of both railway management and labor—so that the corporation can get into business next spring. Given the speed at which trains are disappearing, a year's delay could seriously damage any attempt to rebuild what was once the country's basic means of transportation.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping less flattering those opinions are.

Nothing arouses the hidden paranoia in every office worker more than putting a dime in the office vending machine and getting back neither the soft drink nor the coin. It brings all the woes of his lifetime to a peak.

One of the first lessons of maturity is to have a wholesome distrust of anybody who is always telling you where to buy things wholesale. He's usually no bargain hunter.

An optimist is a guy who can remember when a girl going out on a date took along only a dollar bill for her mad money.

You rarely learn anything very interesting from talking to people at a cocktail party who wear sunglasses to cover up the way they still look from the cocktail party they went to the night before.

No one looks so hopeful as the old maid the day the cruise ship sails—or so forlorn the day it returns.

One of the things men wonder about all their lives is why girls tend to go to the powder room in pairs and what they talk about when they get there. Well, what they generally do is exchange opinions about their escorts, and the longer they linger in the powder room the

"Merci, M. Conan Doyle."

"Why, how do you know my name?" asked Sir Arthur.

"Well, sir, I have seen in the papers that you were coming from the south of France to Paris; your general appearance told me that you were English, your hair had been clearly last cut by a barber of the south of France. I put these indications together and guessed at once that it was you."

"That is very remarkable. You have no other evidence to go upon?"

"Well," said the man, "there was also the fact that your name was on your luggage."

IBN SAUD, Arabian

potentate, wanted a telephone in the palace, but high placed Moslems in his kingdom protested that to use such inventions of the devil-inspired infidel would be sacrilege.

The king pointed out that it the devil were in the telephone, the holy words of Koran would not come over it. That sounded reasonable to the priests, so the king posted a mullah in the palace and one in the telephone exchange — each in turn to read a sacred passage and the other to transcribe it. Both operations resulted in perfect receptions.

The devil was ruled out. Ibn Saud got his telephone, and the conscience of Islam is at peace.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The zany details of CBS's abortive attempt to film an invasion of Haiti all the way through to the anticipated "assassination," of Papa Doc Duvalier, the Haitian dictator, is described in a congressional report kept under lock and key.

The invasion plot was a slapstick, Marx Brothers adventure, better suited for an episode of the spy spoof "Get Smart" than a CBS documentary. At one point, the conspirators, wearing a hidden CBS mike, tried to shake down Papa Doc for $200,000. They approached the Haitian consul in Miami, Eugene Maximilian, and offered to call off the invasion for a satchel full of greenbacks.

Six of the invasion leaders, ultimately, were convicted of violating U.S. laws. The House subcommittee which investigated the madcap 1966 affair, however, was disappointed that CBS escaped conviction.

On almost every page, the report rebukes, CBS, charging in summary:

"CBS funds were provided for the leasing of 67-foot schooner which was to be utilized by the invasion force; expenses were reimbursed for the transportation of weapons which were to be subsequently used by the conspirators; various payments were made to Rolando Masferrer, the leader of the invasion conspiracy, with full knowledge of his identity and criminal intentions. If these acts did not actually involve the network in the conspiracy to violate the U.S. Neutrality Act, they came dangerously close to doing so."

There were, undeniably, misadventures and other circumstances involving both the conspirators and the CBS News organization which, in retrospect, seem humorous and even ridiculous. This should not obscure the fact that hundreds of thousands of dollars and many hundreds of man-hours were expended in the accumulation and assembly of a military paraphernalia for unlawful use against a government which, however reprehensible some may view it

CBS gave $1,500 to a shadowy munitions dealer, named Mitchell Wer Bel III, to conduct these implausible negotiations. As it happened, the Dominican Republic turned down the deal and kicked Wer Bel's representative out of the country. By the time Wer Bel's secret testimony was taken, he looked back on the invasion plot as a lark.

He testified that CBS had also put up a $1,500 downpayment to lease the "mother ship" for the invasion — a 65 foot skiff known as "Poor Richard" which got no further than the plotters' hideout at the luxurious Ocean Reef resort on Key Largo, Fla. The bills of Ocean Reef were also paid by

H.L. Hunt Says

CURRENT FOREIGN AID APPROPRIATIONS

The foreign aid appropriation for the fiscal year 1970-71 may well be the lowest in the history of the program. This would be a step in the right direction in view of the failure of foreign aid to accomplish any worthwhile objectives. However, it is also important to realize that our government gives away billions of dollars each year to other countries in programs which are not labeled "foreign aid."

Recently Congressman Otto Passman of Louisiana made a careful and detailed study of the budget to determine exactly how much money we were giving to other countries. Although the labeled foreign aid appropriation last year was only $1.815 billion, Congressman Passman found a total of $12.133 billion in actual foreign assistance.

Among the items he uncovered were $2.2 billion appropriated by the Foreign Assistance Act, over $4 billion for the Export-Import Bank, $900 million in agricultural commodities, and over $200 million for the Inter-American Development Bank. Even if the identified foreign aid appropriation were cut to zero, our government would still be giving away billions of dollars to other governments each year.

Congressman Passman pointed out that approximately half of our $375 billion national debt is due to foreign aid programs. Each year our government must pay $16 billion in interest on this debt. This money comes from our productive citizens in the form of direct taxes and the hidden tax of inflation. If this money were left in the hands of individuals and personal enterprises, it could be invested in foreign countries, thus helping them to raise their standard of living. H.L.H.

Conflict Over Cause of Arthritis

And Whether Reader Really Reads!

Dear Ann Landers: I have just written to the publisher of the paper asking him to fire you. I am sure he will receive many other such letters. I work for the National Arthritis Foundation and I am incensed by your statement that arthritis is caused by gonorrhea. You have insulted every arthritic in the country. I don't see how you have held your job so long making such crazy statements as that. Do you write your column with a bottle of gin by the typewriter? Don't you have an editor who reads your stuff before they fire you that you will at least apologize -- Boiling Over

Dear Boil: Please read the column again. I said, "The vast majority of people who have arthritis have rheumatoid or osteoarthritis not the gonorrheal type." Then I went on to say, in response to a direct question, "yes, gonorrhea can cause arthritis." the statement is correct. It does not mean, however, that everyone who has arthritis got it from V.D. Here is another example: Excessive drinking can cause cirrhosis of the liver, but not everyone with cirrhosis of the liver got it as a result of drinking. There -- do you feel better?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a woman in my mid 50's and have reared three children. I worked before the children were born and I made good money. I quit when our last child entered high school.

It's a pleasure not to set an alarm clock. I love staying at home and doing as I please. But my husband will not let me alone. He says I am lazy and stupid for piddling away my time. He has made me feel like a leech because I am not bringing in money. He is forever reading ads to me -- "Help wanted, Female." Twice I have received calls from agencies which he undoubtedly "arranged."

My husband is an executive and we are not hard up for money. I have never been a big spender and am more conservative than most women in our crowd. I do my own hair. We have no maid in the house. I don't mind an occasional part-time job, but I don't want steady work. Is this wrong? -- Fiscal Fracas Without End

Dear Fis: A woman in her mid- 50's who has raised three children should not go back to a full-time job unless (1) additional income is needed or (2) she wants to.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who would like to respond to your suggestion that teens should respect their parents and accept responsibility. I couldn't agree more, but how can teens respect their parents when they don't respect us and they don't give us any responsibility?

How is a kid supposed to know what respect is when his parents yell at him all the time, never give him a chance to explain anything, criticize him from morning till night -- never a compliment or a word of encouragement. How are we supposed to know what responsibility is if everything is done for us and we aren't even allowed to make decisions vital to our lives? If a kid's parents won't give him respect and responsibility who can he turn to? -- Illinois Gripe

Dear I.G.: You've raised some excellent points. I hope it jars loose a few parental brains. Thanks for a good letter.

Confidential to Were We Insulted?: Not necessarily. In fact, it might have been a compliment. "Lace Curtain Irish" are people of Irish descent who have fruit in the house when nobody is sick.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Then she rolled up the cuff of her slacks and showed the healing one-inch diameter bite mark on the calf of her leg.

'The Kids Say Their Mother Is A Mailman'

Ann Phelps has been with the Sikeston Post Office two and one half months. She says the work is about the hardest she has done in her adult life, but that she really likes it.

Mrs. Phelps is the mother of one daughter, now a college student, and two sons, a 15 year old whom she describes as her "beat musician," and a six year old.

They are residents of Malden, but are planning to move to Sikeston in the near future.

Mrs. Phelps was tax collector for the city of Malden prior to the civil service appointment which designates her as a 'temporary indefinite' employee. This simply means Mrs. Phelps is temporarily appointed to the Postal department. She will be eligible for permanent appointment when a position opens. The 'indefinite' means she may be assigned to any position in the post office, letter carrying, clerical work (sorting mail, selling stamps) for example.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Bob Gibson was firing bullets but fortunately for San Diego, one of his blazing missiles misfired, saving the Padres the embarrassment of being no-hit victims for the second time within a week.

Ivan Murrell was the minihero of the Padres, exploding a two-out eighth inning single—the only hit-off the overpowering St. Louis righthander, who faced only 25 batters as the Cardinals routed San Diego 8-0 Wednesday night.

In other National League action, Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Atlanta nipped Montreal 6-5, Cincinnati stopped the New York Mets 7-4, Chicago belted San Francisco 6-1 and Philadelphia whipped Houston 4-2.

In the American League, Milwaukee dropped Baltimore 5-1, Boston trounced Kansas City 3-1, Washington edged Minnesota 3-1, Chicago topped New York

Philadelphia to a lone hit in 1965. Jose Cardenal backed Gibson's performance, stroking three doubles, scoring twice and driving in a pair of runs. Gibson also delivered two run-scoring singles and lowered his ERA to 3.76 while upping his strikeouts to 126 in 107 2-3 innings, second in the league to Tom Seaver's 129.

Only one ball was hit hard, a liner in the fifth by Ron Slocum, but it was right at first baseman Rich Allen, until Murrell drilled a sharp grounder over second base and into center field in the eighth.

ATLANTA (AP) — Frank Merger or one with conditions that are more favorable to the NBA than right now," he said.

The board was scheduled to discuss a merger at today's session.

However, a U.S. District Court in New York issued an injunction last May forbidding the leagues to merge. The injunction came in a suit filed by the NBA Players Association.

The owner of the San Francisco Warriors here for the two day meeting of the NBA's Board of Governors, said Wednesday that there were seven negative votes in the most recent merger vote by the owners. It takes only five votes to kill a merger.

"All I have to do is keep my seven little men together," said Muehl, who has the NBA rights to two stars now with ABA teams Rick Barry of Washington and ZELMO Beaty of Los Angeles.

"Then there will either be no

the matter would go back to the court and actual merger provisions couldn't be agreed upon until favorable disposition of the suit.

If that stage is ever reached, the NBA determined at least one merger condition in the aftermath of the Ralph Simpson signing hassle.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said the NBA would insist that the ABA agree not to sign college players before their class graduated.

The Denver Rockets of the ABA announced Tuesday the signing of Simpson, a star at Michigan State who had two years eligibility remaining.

However, ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph said Wednesday he would reject the Simpson contract and fine Denver $10,000 if the contract reached his office.

Dolph's statement came after the National Collegiate Athletic Association urged its members and coaches to invoke an immediate boycott on the ABA because of the Simpson accident.

"The NBA has operated for 25 years under a rule prohibiting the signing of a player until the graduation of his class, Kennedy said.

"Action of this nature certainly cannot help, and might hurt, Congressional approval of a merger."

Defending Duffers Tournament champion, Clem Beal, is expected to be among the more than 100 golfers competing Sunday in the 18 hole event that is scheduled to get underway at 8 a.m.

Beal, who won the match last year, needs two more wins to claim permanent possession of the Buckner-Ragsdale traveling trophy that is presented each year to the winner.

Mike Jones is tournament chairman.

Expos Slugger Advises To Concentrate In Drills

By RUSTY STAUB

Written for AP Newsfeatures

I'd like to advise youngsters who have a desire to become major leaguers to take constant practice and give practice all the concentration possible.

In batting they should work on good solid contact. They must not try to overpower the ball. Get a good pitch to hit.

If you think along these lines in workouts everything will fall in line when the game starts.

There are three people I want to satisfy in the game of baseball. One of them is myself. I always try to improve on what I'm doing. Secondly, I'd like to please our manager, Gene Mauch, because those who play for him have so much respect for him.

Third is not one person in particular. It's the public because they pay good money to come to the ball park. If I fill the first two desires I've got the third one made.

I agree that with kids too much emphasis is placed on winning. As a youngster you should put emphasis on the enjoyment of the game. You play to have fun. As you get older you will realize the importance of winning and of being a team man.

Jackson teamed with Bruce Milam to lead the hitting, collecting two and three hits respectively out of the teams eight safeties.

Benton will play at New Hamburg Friday in another league match.

Next 80 Years May See World Population Tripled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Unless current trends change the world 80 years hence will have three persons for every one now living.

That is the projection of the U.N. secretariat, presented in a background paper to help a committee of experts suggest new studies on the relationships between population trends and economic development.

The paper says the world is "faced with the high probability that, if present trends continue, the inhabitants of the planet may outnumber 11 billion as early as the middle of the 21st century."

The estimated 1970 population is 3.362 billion. The secretariat shows what it means by "present trends" in detailed projections to the end of the 20th century.

These indicate that from now till then the world's crude birth rate will fall a fourth—from 33.2 down to 25.1 live births per 1,000 people—while the crude death rate will fall a third—from 12.8 to 8.1 deaths per 1,000. Life expectancy at birth will rise to 66 1/2 years from 55 1/2.

That will bring the annual rate of world population growth down from 1970's 2 per cent to 1.7 per cent in the year 2000. After restore it.

In 1926 Arrow Rock State Park was created and in 1959 a group of interested parties from throughout the state organized Friends of Arrow Rock and began helping or encouraging restoration of the many other historical sites and buildings.

During the 1850s Arrow Rock had its own literary and debating club called "The Philomatheans" which also presented plays.

Today the Arrow Rock Lyceum, Missouri's pioneer repertory theatrical company, is preparing for its 10th season beginning June 27 and its professional cast will present six plays.

And finally, there's one other device employed to keep the "doorways of the past" open.

The auctioneer's gavel at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 20, will open the 11th annual auction of antiques, china, glass, books and bric-a-brac in Arrow Rock State Park.

Sponsored by the Friends of Arrow Rock, the auction—rain or shine—is held under a large tent and this year will include a collection of nearly 1,000 shoes dating to 1750, antique furniture from the James estate at St. James, and items from Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes and other state and national officials.

The shoe collection was started by the late Charles E. Osterkamp, an executive of International Shoe Co., in St. Louis. It includes bearskin slippers worn by companions of Daniel Boone on a wilderness trip, slippers worn by the late movie actress Constance Moore in a movie with Eddie Cantor, and those worn by the late John Cardinal Glennon when he appeared in Rome to be made a Cardinal.

All of the proceeds of the auction are used for restoration and preservation of historic sites and buildings in Arrow Rock, "pathways of study where historical knowledge and inspiration can be found."

Soybean Price Supports Show Little Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — County rates for government price supports on 1970 crop soybeans mostly will be unchanged from last year but some areas will have slight adjustments, says the Agriculture Department.

Price supports will be based on the national average of $2.25 per bushel for No. 1 grade soybeans, the same as last year. Farmers in some areas of the southeast—including many counties in Georgia, Florida and Alabama—will be eligible for slightly higher supports, boosts ranging from 1 to 3 cents per bushel.

This was done as a result of new processing mills in the area and strong market prices the department said.

A few counties in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area of Minnesota were increased one cent per bushel to reflect their location near water transportation, and parts of central and eastern Illinois were lowered one cent "to make them more comparable" with rates in adjacent areas, the department said.

Special Session Left More Problems Than It Solved

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's special legislative session, the third since last September, left more problems than it solved.

When the regular six-month session convenes next January, it faces a mountainous pile of unsolved problems and most of them spell political trouble.

The big one, of course, is revenue — where to get the money to pay for the big backlog of needs which have been building up since the state started running out of money last year.

This time the Legislature adopted a bare bones budget giving state agencies and institutions no more than they got for the 1969-70 year. Actually that means cuts for most of them because of continuing inflation.

The Legislature also was able to rely on some one-shot income from speeded up collection of sales taxes, something that won't be available next year.

The backlog of building needs alone is enough to frighten anyone, let alone the legislators who will have to dig up the money.

No new buildings were authorized by the 1969 Legislature and only two by the special session just ended — $4 million for a new medical school at Kansas City and $4.5 million for a replacement chemistry building at the U.M.—Rolla campus. A start also was authorized on a new maximum security prison but no construction funds were voted. Now every college, university and hospital is crying for millions of dollars worth of new buildings. The total is staggering and costs keep going up.

One solution, which has received scant support so far, would be a big capital improvements bond issue for a long range building program.

Another, suggested recently by Sen. A. B. Basye Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, would be a 2-cent increase in the state sales tax, with revenue from one cent earmarked for buildings over a five-year period to produce some $500 million.

After the voters overwhelmingly rejected an income tax increase in the April 7 referendum election, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes predicted it would be 18 months before the Legislature would be able to pass any new revenue measures.

All signs indicate now that the legislators elected this fall will have to grapple with the problem in the 1971 session. By that time, the needs put off in the 1970-71 austerity budget are expected to cause a big enough clamor to force some action.

For example, the special session cut Medicaid matching funds by $3 million, causing a corresponding loss in federal funds.

Welfare director Proctor N. Carter and comptroller John C. Vaughn, the budget director, already have started discussions proposal went down the drain. Instead the Legislature asked the Governor to call a Reorganization or "Little Hoover" Commission to study the problems of extending the merit system to all state agencies — something the commission is already doing in a broad study of state personnel policies.

The special session also set up a special study committee to examine changes in welfare laws. The shape of the federal system is not yet determined, but the broad federal changes proposed would have an immediate impact on Missouri's welfare programs.

A special legislative and citizens' committee also is trying to develop some kind of a plan to preserve Missouri's scenic rivers after Ozark landowners forced withdrawal of an initiative proposal sponsored by canoeists and conservationists.

The goal is to get something ready in time for consideration by the 1971 Legislature.

If the voters, as predicted by many, reject a 1969 pension law for legislators and state employees, the 1971 session also will have to wrestle with that again.

Aside from the legislative problems, another leadership battle appears to be shaping up in the Senate.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, was ousted as President Pro Tem last January after a year of one man rule and Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, was elected to replace him.

Patterson is expected to be opposed for the job in the new general assembly by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty. For majority floor leader, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, is being talked about as a challenger of Vanlandingham.

Four of the 34 senators are retiring this year and the successors could play a key role in this internal fight.

At this point only one prediction is safe: everything the 1971 Legislature does will hinge on the overriding issue of revenue.

College Series Reaches Showdown

OMAHA (AP) — After a five-day grind in mostly 90-degree temperatures, the double elimination College World Series reached a showdown stage Wednesday with three unbeaten teams remaining in the original field of eight.

Second-ranked Texas 39-7 will meet No. 3 Florida State 48-8 Wednesday at 8 p.m. CDT. The winner will face No. 1 Southern California 50-13 at the same time Thursday for the championship. The Trojans drew a Wednesday bye.

The windup includes teams backed by previous world series experience. Texas is in its 14th appearance and won in 1949 and 1950 to be the only club ever to take successive titles. Florida State is here for the fifth time with a previous best showing being fourth place in 1962. USC has made the big show 12 times and won it five, the last in 1968.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson said he would start senior right-hand James Street 8-1 Wednesday night. Street, quarterback of Texas' national football champions, has been nursing a pulled groin muscle and in a start Sunday against Ohio U. he lasted two innings, striking out four, before being hampered.

Jack Stallings of Florida State is expected to counter with unbeaten Gene Amman, junior right-hander, who has 14 victories. He made his world series debut with a remarkable 0.60 earned run average Saturday and fired a two-hitter to blank Arizona 4-0.

Texas blew a 7-1 lead in losing to USC 8-7 in x4 innings Tuesday night and absorbed its first series defeat. The game was only one inning short of a tourney record.

In the first game, Florida State eliminated Ohio U. 2-0.

Atomic Power Price Hike Runs Into Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon administration proposal to hike the price of atomic fuel has drawn stiff congressional opposition on grounds it could raise electric bills for everyone who owns a light bulb and lead to a private monopoly of nuclear energy.

The complex issue concerns the administration's proposed 10 per cent increase for uranium enrichment services, presently performed exclusively by the Atomic Energy Commission.

"You'll see the price go up on every kilowatt of power in the United States," Chairman Chet Holifield, D-Calif., said Monday at a hearing of the Senate-House Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

"Not only is this inflationary in itself, but ... it sets a horrible example for every other industry," said Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

The AEC argued the cost hike would justify establishment of a model plant to provide private industry with the know-how to enrich uranium.

The Atomic Energy commissioners, who already have approved the hike, added the price boost could be justified on grounds of increased costs.

Holifield and others charged the model plant concept eventually would lead to the private takeover of the three government-owned plants now performing the task.

The three plants are located at Paducah, Ky., Portsmouth, Ohio, and Oakridge, Tenn. One of these presumably would be used to instruct industry technicians on the procedure.

"You are only justifying a higher profit image for the transfer of the plants to private ownership," said Holifield. He

New Trial for Lamb Rejected

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Motions for a new trial and for deferment of the sentence of Thomas Preston Lamb were overruled in Johnson County Court Tuesday and the convicted kidnaper and murderer was taken to the Kansas Penitentiary at Lansing to begin serving three consecutive life sentences.

Earlier this month, Lamb, 29, of Fort Scott, Kan., was convicted by Judge Harold R. Riggs of kidnapping and murdering Miss Karen Sue Kemmerly last December. He was also convicted of kidnapping Miss Patricia Ann Childs in January.

Sheriff Fred Allenbrand said Lamb tried to attack a jailer at the county jail before being taken to the hearing. Allenbrand said Lamb was subdued before he could reach the jailer.

Joint Chief Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed today the nomination of James D. Hodgson of Los Angeles, to be Secretary of Labor.

Hodgson, 54, has been Undersecretary of Labor since the start of the Nixon administration 17 months ago.

Wage Price Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Kenneth Galbraith, who was second in command to the World War II Office of Price Administration, called Tuesday for a six-month freeze of wages and prices affecting especially large corporations.

Galbraith, who later served as ambassador to India and is now a professor of economics at Harvard, made his recommendation to the House Banking Committee. The panel is considering such legislation, introduced by Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex.

Galbraith said President Nixon's policies to control inflation have failed.

He said a six-month freeze should be used in working out with corporations and unions a more permanent but less drastic system of restraint and "needless to say, all of this action needs to be combined with a speedy liquidation of our adventure in Indochina."

Grand Jury Probe of Collector's Office Possible

There is speculation a grand jury will be called to probe into the affairs of the Scott county collector's office.

A point in question is an armed robbery reported to have occurred the night of Dec. 5, 1969, when former Deputy Collector J. W. "Dub" Shuffit was alone in the court house. Law enforcement officials have questioned whether there was a robbery. Shuffit has said that he would welcome a grand jury investigation.

The county recovered $109,236.50 shortage Wednesday in the collectors' office since 1965. The amount was paid by bonding companies of former Collector Aubrey Lee Michael, who resigned Jan. 6. Michael has agreed to pay back to the bonding companies $112,736.50 over a two-year period. This covers the bonding companies' cost in the case. Michael signed a note when the bonding companies filed a cross claim in circuit court against him for the amount.

Yesterday's settlement in circuit court closed a civil suit against Michael to collect the sum. No criminal charges have been filed. Prosecuting attorney Tom Gilmore has not ruled out this possibility.

State, $844.04; county, $10,734.92; special road and bridge districts, $6,101.12; health, $2,149.44; library, $1,113.02; Johnson grass, $464.90; drainage, $433.25, and cities, $1,500.87.

Herbert W. Schooler, UMC provost, said the chairman of the sociology department would not be released from his suspension until the board took action.

The curators voted June 2 to suspend Dr. Hobbs without pay until he disclosed the names of faculty members in his department who canceled classes in connection with protests against the war in Southeast Asia and the killings at Kent State University.

Schooler would not reveal how many or which teachers suspended classes. The department voted 16-6 against holding classes May 7 and 8.

Hobbs, 36, could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

The first two sons of Adam and Eve were named Cain (meaning "possession") and Abel (meaning "vanity").

About Our Schools

By Lynn Twitty

We can remember a time, in the rather distant past, when education was less complicated and when school was dismissed just that, a summer vacation. The school building was swept out, a simple report or two was made and a couple of days after the kids left, so did about everybody else.

Then a couple of days before school was to open, the custodian came in and swept the floors and applied a new coat of oil, the teachers counted the textbooks and school was ready to open. "It ain't that way any more." The administrative staff and a considerable number of other faculty are on the job every day of the summer, for that matter, during most other school recesses, as are maintenance men, custodians, etc. There are a lot of tasks that must be accomplished every day of the school year.

It takes until the middle of July, sometimes later, to complete all of the reports, recording, the innumerable paper work that simply never stops. Then the planning for the next school year, the necessary changes, the additional enrolling of new students, the scheduling of students into classes and believe it or not, this involves several million combinations, that simply could not be accomplished without computers. We rent time on the state college computer.

Buildings are, at least should be, maintained, cleaned, renovated and polished for fall. Grounds must be cared for, the grass mowed as often as we education, then perhaps we can catch up in other areas even though present neglect will cost more when delayed.

We hope that newcomers to the community, having children who will be enrolled in school next fall, will be enrolled in school next fall, will immediately contact the principals of the schools near to them so that their children can be enrolled. We urge especially that parents of kindergarten-aged children will enroll their children as soon as possible. Incidentally for economic reasons, we do not have a secretary of the kindergarten building during the summer so kindergarten enrollments must be made at the elementary schools.

It is important that students be pre-enrolled in order that they can be assigned, supplies provided and other necessary arrangements made prior to the opening of school.

While the beginning date has not been officially established by the Board of Education, it is probable that school will open Monday, August 31 for the 1970-71 term. Teacher Orientation will be held the preceding week or 25-28 August. As usual, school will likely be dismissed for the September 7, Labor Day holiday. Tentatively, school will close June 3.

The precise dates will be given when officially established by the Board.

It is noted that this schedule provides for school closing a few days later than usual. This is to allow for certain planned teacher workshops or perhaps three-day weekends for which students will be dismissed.

We hope that parents will encourage their children to get in as much reading as possible during the summer although we are sure that this will naturally be after all the baseball, swimming, fishing, visiting with grandma, etc. are accomplished, as should be the case. If students can establish the habit of reading regularly, and parental encouragement here is very necessary, they will continue to learn and will not suffer the normal "set-back" that sometimes occurs during the vacation period.

To further illustrate that "summer vacation" is not an actual vacation for everyone, at least 50 of our teachers are involved in summer graduate workshops, to sharpen their professional skills and another 20 are teaching in our summer school programs, especially at the elementary level.

Tractor Noise Could Cause Hearing Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The noise a farmer puts up with while riding a tractor ranks between the clatter of a city street and the uproar of a boiler factory, says the Agriculture Department.

Measured on a sound scale of decibels the noise most people hear ranges from 20 for a soft whisper to the 160 of a jet airplane using its afterburner on takeoff, the department says in a report.

"Around 85 decibels is the starting point for the danger level," the report says. "Tractors emit from 80 to 110 decibels, depending on the load and other factors." If a farmer's ears ring or he suffers head noises for a few hours after climbing off a tractor or if speech seems muffled when others talk, then permanent hearing damage may be occurring, the department says.

As a guide, measured on the decibel scale, noises rated less than a tractor's include treet traffic, conversation, office work and whistles. Airplanes, shotguns, firecrackers and heavy rifle fire are louder.

Tractor manufacturers are trying to cut down noises by building soundproof cabs and better mufflers, but department experts also say ear plugs or other protectors can help.

Bond Faults Holman For Not Spotting Unused Equipment

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Christopher (Kit) Bond, Republican candidate for state auditor, says Democratic Auditor Haskell Holman should have spotted unused equipment in the State Department of Revenue.

Bond said the unused computer equipment never was taken out of the crates but cost the department $4,000 a month for at least eight months.

"As state auditor," Bond said, "I will not only see that each agency follows proper procedures for controlling its inventory and property, I will direct my auditors to make spot checks to see that the state actually has the equipment it is paying for."

Bond spoke at the annual picnic of the Lincoln Ladies Republican Club.

Milems Return from Attending University of South in Sewanee

50 Years Ago
June 18, 1920
Jackson and Russell Milems, who attended the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., the past school year, arrived home last Saturday to spend the summer vacation with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. J.A. Milem.

J.E. Rodgers has resigned his position as manager of the implement department of the Farmers Supply Co., and left the first of the week for Owensboro, Ky., to visit his mother, who is in ill health. He will return here in about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Olive left Monday afternoon for Des Moines, Iowa, where they will make their home. Mrs. Olive formerly lived at Des Moines and met Mr. Olive while he was a soldier at Camp Dodge.

Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Tanner and children left Wednesday for their summer home at Hanabutt Beach, Long Island. Mr. Tanner will return in about two weeks and will join his family at Manhattan Beach later in the summer. They expect to return to Sikeston about September 1st.

New Madrid - Edwin McCaine of Caruthersville spent the weekend here with friends.

Morehouse - Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Whitener, who have been visiting in St. Louis for the past week, returned Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. O.T. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. Randol Wilson and Mrs. L.D. Gmeiner drove to Camp Landon and spent the day Sunday visiting their respective sons who are camped for two weeks at the Boy Scout camp.

Morley - Mrs. Henry Shores and child of Chaffee came down Thursday for a visit with the former's mother, Mrs. Josephine Watson.

Mrs. Georgia Donnell and her three daughters, The Misses Betty Belle, Peggy and Mary Emma, returned Wednesday evening from Hacketstown, N.J., where Miss Peggy was graduated from the Centenary Junior College last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Keith entertained with a dinner Tuesday evening in honor of the 38th wedding anniversary of Mr. Keith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Keith.

The wedding of Miss Polly Hearne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McClure Hearne of Poplar Bluff, and David Edgar Planton of this city, took place Saturday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church in Poplar Bluff.

Purchase of 240 acres of land two miles south of Morehouse Friday completed the first deal for a series of tracts which will contain the Farm Security Administration's group labor "villages." The plot, purchased through Harry Hart from J.C. Kuelman of Oceanside, Calif., will house 60 small model homes for cotton laborers.

Kermit Goddard, former head technician in charge of the State Laboratory here received his Master's Degree recently from the University of Michigan. He left his position here last fall to enter the university.

Bob Shirley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Shirley, celebrated his seventh birthday Saturday with a party at the home of his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arbaugh entertained with a party at their home, 707 East Kathleen, Friday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Karen Sue, who was seven.

country." The same can be said about Senators, Fulbright, McGovern, Cooper, Hughes and several misguided members of our U.S. Senate.

"If this is a sample of the work of patriotic members of the Senate, the enemy need not bother about fighting us - they have the battle won before it begins."

It seems to me that if the Senators honestly feel they are right, the least they can do would be to talk privately to the President rather than in the Senate when their comments are always given headlines for the enemy to be further convinced that there is no need whatsoever to negotiate peace.

The enemy has long been convinced that by dragging along for years, as did the French, Americans will become weary and divided and pull out without achieving anything. Why not, if you disapprove the action of the Senate write your own Senators expressing your disapproval?

Sure, I am hoping for an early pull-out of our military men from Vietnam, but I see no immediate prospects for this to be possible, except to unconditionally surrender to the Communists.

Monticello College Succumbs to Deficit

Rise, Enrollment Dip

GODFREY, Ill. (AP) - Declining enrollment and a continuing deficit have brought an end to the 135-year-old Monticello College for Women.

The chairman of the newly formed Lewis and Clark Junior College District, Paul Hanks, announced Tuesday the district had purchased the 3 buildings and 28-acre site of the private college for $4 million.

The purchase is subject to the approval of the Illinois State Board of Education.

In any event, Hanks said, Monticello will continue to operate until the end of the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Monticello College, named for Thomas Jefferson's Virginia home, enrolled its first students in 1838. The site of the school was chosen three years earlier by Rev. Theron Baldwin and Capt. Benjamin Godfrey, a Cape Cod sailing master.

The school is located about five miles north of Alton.

Massachusetts Dean to Speak At Cape State

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The dean of the school of education at the University of Massachusetts, Dr. Dwight W. Allen, will speak Thursday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The 38-year-old administrator will address students and faculty members at 9:20 a.m. in the auditorium of Academic Hall. The program is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Allen received his bachelor's master's, and doctor's degree from Stanford University and spent much of his professional career on the Stanford faculty before moving to his present position.

He was an instructor at Athens College in Athens, Greece, during the 1953-54 school year. Following two years in the Army and two years as a secondary school teacher, he became a research assistant in the Stanford School of Education while pursuing his doctoral studies.

In 1959, after earning his Ed.D. degree, he was a research associate for the school's secondary education project until 1962. He was promoted to assistant professor of education in 1962 and advanced to associate professor in 1965. He left the university in 1967.

Dr. Allen, who is married and the father of five children, has co-authored two books, co-edited another volume, written chapters for several books, and published numerous articles in professional periodicals.

He has also made two sets of film lectures, prepared several technical reports, and carried out a number of research projects with grants from both governmental agencies and private foundations.

Dr. Allen is a member of several professional societies, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Education Research Association, the National Council for the Social Studies, and the National Society for the Study of Education.

Later on this summer, on July 8, the dean of the School of Education at the University of Houston, Dr. Robert Howsam, is scheduled to speak on the campus. This will be an evening event and, the present time, is set for 8 p.m. on the east terrace of Academic Hall.

Strike Slows Construction In Region

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Construction projects in Southeast Missouri were slowed Tuesday by a strike of about 800 members of Building and Laborers Local 282, headquartered here.

Negotiations between the union and the Southeast Missouri Contractors Association broke down Monday. The old contract expired May 15.

A spokesman for the contractors, James L. Drury, said about 400 additional members remained on the job in New Madrid, at an aluminum plant construction site.

The union has asked for a three-year contract including an hourly raise to $5.47 the first year plus a $1 an hour hike each of the next two years.

The old contract provided a $3.52 hourly salary.

TRAVEL INCENTIVE

NEW DELHI (AP) - To boost passenger traffic on Air India, the nation's international airline, the government has raised the amount of foreign exchange an Indian can take out of the country with him to $108 if he travels with Air India. Under the old rule Indians could not take more than $8.00 in foreign exchange. That rule still applies to travel with airlines other than Air India.

Dear Editor: Recently I clipped a letter published in the Commercial Appeal which pretty well expresses my feeling concerning the current effort by a considerable number of U.S. Senators to tie the hands of the President in his conduct of the Vietnam War. I quote "Liberal Senators and television commentators have joined forces with the Left Wing Lunatic fringe to make certain, if they can, that America loses the War in Vietnam."

"To make sure the attack on Cambodian Communist Sanitaries is not successful enough to assure victory in this war, the Liberal Senators have mounted an attack in the Senate to tie the hands of the President, hereby endangering the lives of thousands of American boys in Vietnam."

"Senator Gore is so busy crying for the Leftwing students and their advisors in this country he has no tears to shed for the Americans who are brave enough to fight and die for their country."

Mr. and Mrs. David Stark and Son of Charleston, visited with his father, Mr. L.P. Stark.

It's not hard to see how each year, problem drinkers are involved in killing at least 25,000 of us on our highways. When people lose control drinking, they often lose control driving.
But what is hard to see is why we keep letting them. Many problem drinkers need to be helped. But first, they need to be taken off the road. Sooner or later, it has to happen. Make it sooner. 18-Year-Old Vote Goes to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bold bit of strategy by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has helped Congress pass a generation gap-bridging bill that lowers the voting age to 18.

By a 77-132 vote the House Wednesday accepted the 18-year-old vote provision as part of a Senate-passed bill that also continues the 1965 Voting Rights Act for five more years.

If the provision becomes law and is upheld by the courts, it would add an estimated 10 million youths between 18 and 21 to those eligible to vote in federal, state and local primary and general elections.

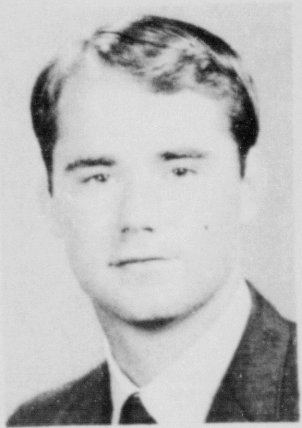

House approval sent the package to President Nixon, putting him under the same pressure that Mansfield's strategy applied to the House—accept the bill on both counts or risk further alienation of the nation's youth and its blacks.

Nixon has said he supports the 18-year-old vote, but only through a constitutional amendment, not by a simple act of Congress. He also has opposed extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which applies mainly to seven Southern states, on grounds it is regional legislation.

At the end of Wednesday's brief but emotional debate, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford spoke of Nixon's past opposition and raised the possibility the President might let the bill become law without signing it. There had been earlier speculation of a veto.

Civil rights groups were alarmed when the Senate, at Mansfield's insistence, tied the 18-year-old voting proposal to the bill extending the Voting Rights Act.

One of the most successful civil rights laws ever enacted, the 1965 act has resulted in adding a million Negroes to the voting rolls in seven Southern states. Its supporters feared it would be dragged under by the weight of so controversial a proposal as

MIKE ALLIGIER, 24, New Madrid, Mo., will be the manager of the new branch office of the Security Federal Savings and Loan Association which opens July 1 in New Madrid.

Particularly unhappy was Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, an ardent supporter of the Voting Rights Act but equally strong in his opposition to lowering the voting age. It was mainly to overcome Celler's opposition that Mansfield devised his strategy.

It worked to perfection Wednesday when Celler led the fight to accept the Senate bill, although still no fan of youthful voting.

Celler said there would be no way to save the Voting Rights Act from expiring in August if the House passed only the Voting Rights extension and the 18-year-old voting proposal.

As for the 18-year-old vote, Celler said it carries a provision calling for a prompt judicial test and a review by the Supreme Court that should settle any constitutional question before January 1. In Celler's opinion the Supreme Court will find it unconstitutional.

Services will be Friday at 2 p.m. in the McCombs Funeral Chapel, officiating by the Rev. H. B. Colter, officiating.

Burial will be in Russell Heights cemetery. Pallbearers will be Paul Bruening, R. A. Fulewider, George Heyde, Henry Bos, Palmer Hacker and Gene Brockett.

Justice Department On Lookout for Campaign Violations

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Justice Department is keeping an eye peeled for violations of federal laws governing political campaign contributions, U.S. Atty. Daniel Bartlett Jr. said Monday.

Fourteen corporations last year were fined a total of $199,500 for alleged illegal political contributions, Bartlett said, adding additional indictments are expected.

"Since this is an election year, I think it is appropriate to remind those concerned with the financing of political campaigns that federal law prohibits corporations and labor organizations from making contributions or expenditures in connection with campaigns for federal office," Bartlett said.

Bartlett made the statement upon receipt of a Justice Department release sent to U.S. attorneys.

Officials Playing Down 'Inflation Alert' Phrase

WASHINGTON (AP) — of productivity—a sharp decline in the rate of increase in output per worker—was the core of the "inflation alert" portion of President Nixon's new

White House won't turn its publicity spotlight on individual price-boosting companies.

And congressional reaction gave ample evidence that Nixon's Wednesday broadcast on the state of the economy will not quiet the clamor in Congress for a tougher anti-inflation clampdown.

While Republican senators generally endorsed the Nixon proposals, Democratic congressional leaders branded them "vague soothing rhetoric too little and too late."

Nixon announced he will name a new 24-member National Commission on Productivity. He has ordered his Council of Economic Advisers to "prepare a periodic inflation alert." This, he said, would "spotlight the significant areas of wage and price increases."

But when pressed for details, administration officials said there would be no jawboning "in the sense of direct pressure on individual firms or unions." The inflation alerts, it was stated, would not deal with specific commodities.

Officials seemed bent on deflecting the attention of newsmen from the "inflation alert" plan, insisting the problem while "supplementing" them with the new measures.

One high official said privately it would be "self-defeating" to criticize individual firms or industries for excessive price increases.

"That narrows the problem too much," the sources said. "The public might be alerted to a price increase for flat-rolled steel sheets, but it would miss the fact that 200,000 doctors added $5 to their charge for a house call."

Officials also insisted the battle against inflation is being won and there will be no change in the basic course despite Nixon's admission progress is not fast enough.

In lodging responsibility for "inflation alert" in his economic council, Nixon adopted a proposal of Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and six other Republicans submitted as a Senate resolution with that intent.

But it also placed the watchdog responsibility on economist Paul W. McCracken who has stated repeatedly that wage-price curbs do not work.

Javits praised Nixon's message Wednesday, saying he hoped the President would follow up his words with deeds.

GOP Sen. John G. Tower of Texas said in a statement Nixon "has wisely chosen an appropriate and responsible course."

"This course is neither smooth nor short," Tower said. "It is correct. It is the American people to exhibit the patience and confidence required for success."

Democratic comment was caustic. House Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma described Nixon's speech as "another dose of the administration's soothing rhetoric, contrived, scripted and produced by the public relations experts who seem to have such influence in the high councils of this administration."

Albert added: "We still await positive action."

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said, "This latest policy is too little and too late. What are needed are standards for wage-price behavior and a temporary freeze."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said Nixon's speech reminded him of "the remarks we used to hear from President Hoover in the late 1920s and early 1930s."

"The people want real action to roll back interest rates, to lower prices and stop the rising dissatisfaction with current unemployment," Patman said.

"They want something done to provide housing. A vague comment that the government would continue to rely on those, problem."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed today President Nixon's nomination of Adm. Thomas H. Moorer as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Phnom Penh Liquor Agents Among Braces for First Trial Witnesses Red Attack

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Enemy troops severed two major highways out of Phnom Penh today, cutting traffic between the threatened capital and Saigon and isolating a large Cambodian force at the military headquarters town of Kompong Cham.

Highway 1, leading to Saigon, was cut by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops about 25 miles south of Phnom Penh, said travelers who tried to use the road.

Potentially more serious was the cutoff on a second highway near Skoun, 38 miles northeast of the capital. This is the only land route to the provincial and regional military headquarters at Kompong Cham, where two Cambodian regiments are based.

In Phnom Penh, the population waited tensely to see if a threatened attack by the enemy would materialize.

A Buddhist monk who said he escaped from North Vietnamese troops at Kompong Speu told a news conference the Communists boasted they would attack Phnom Penh today, three months to the day after Premier Lon Nol and his associates deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk as chief of state.

Several diplomats said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong already had scored a propaganda victory by frightening the city's population. Meanwhile, Phnom Penh was quiet.

A military spokesman reported fighting in Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, and said South Vietnamese helicopters and gunships were flying in support of the ground troops.

He also reported scattered fighting around Kompong Chhnang, 56 miles northwest of the capital, where enemy troops were reported Wednesday to have taken partial control of the town and to have set up strong points in a hotel and the central market. Today the spokesman said Cambodian troops were trying to clear the area but there was no fighting in the town itself.

The spokesman also described the situation around Angkor Wat, the famed temple ruin in northwest Cambodia, as critical. He said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had occupied nearly all the vast 12th century ruin, Cambodia's greatest national treasure, and had established several hospitals and storage areas there.

"More seriously," he added, "they are putting in anti-aircraft gun emplacements around the temples."

Cambodian fighter-bombers are attacking enemy positions in the vicinity of the temples but are staying clear of the ruins themselves, the spokesman said. The Cambodian government has declared Angkor an "open city," saying its troops would make no move against enemy forces occupying them in order to avoid damage to the buildings.

Along the border between Cambodia and South Vietnam, battlefield contact remained light but U.S. troops found two more large supply dumps, one containing 81 tons of rice and the other about nine tons of mortar rounds and other assorted ammunition, plus five tons of rice. All of the material was destroyed, the U.S. Command in Saigon said.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Liquor agents from Mississippi and Alabama were expected to be among the first witnesses today in the state of Missouri's ouster suit against Sheriff Clyde Orton of Pemiscot County.

Complaints by the southern liquor agents led to an investigation by Missouri officials that prompted Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to seek Orton's ouster on grounds he permitted wholesale violations of state liquor and gambling laws.

Special Commissioner Ray Weightman, a former circuit court judge from Maryville, is hearing the case for the Missouri supreme court.

Weightman allowed the state to accuse Orton of conspiring to arrange the slaying of a former Caruthersville man, Bud Cook.

Mississippi and Alabama officials complained that when they visited the Southeast Missouri county looking for the source of whiskey being shipped to dry counties in their states they were threatened with arrest by Orton and his deputies.

A three-month investigation by Missouri authorities

culminated in a series of raids by state officials on bars accused of selling beer or liquor without licenses and of other violations of liquor laws.

Danforth filed his ouster petition with the Missouri Supreme Court in January.

As a result of the state probe, liquor licenses of the Casanova Lounge, Eddie and Jay's and The Sportster in Caruthersville were revoked.

Circumstances of the alleged murder conspiracy against Cook, who operates a produce truck, have not been disclosed by the state.

Cook and his attorney were spectators at Wednesday's opening session of the trial. Cook has declined to comment to newsmen.

Another Danforth motion pending alleges Orton participated in vote fraud by arranging transportation of persons from one polling place to another to vote more than once and paid them off in money and liquor.

The state argued successfully Wednesday for the replacement of Wesley Mayo, Orton's chief deputy, as court bailiff. Weightman ordered that Mayo be replaced by a Missouri Highway Patrol Trooper today. BJ26 and June 18

$44,080 Grant

To Encourage Economic Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Economic Development Administration has approved a $44,080 grant to the Bootheel Economic Development Council to help pay for research, planning, counseling and promotional activities aimed at economic growth.

The Bootheel Council serves Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Announcement of the grant was made by Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Wednesday.

The grant will be used primarily for salaries of administrative personnel, according to Phillip Shelton, manager of the Council at Malden.

The Economic Development Administration assigns priorities to applications for economic development.

Wyatt also was fined $25 on two careless driving charges.

Ray and Tom Filipo, and John Burton were fined $31 each for gambling.

Gary Martin was fined $15 for peace disturbance.

Wayne Courtney was fined $11 for public intoxication.

Ziburn Jackman, 324 North, is charged with public intoxication.

Unemployment Claims Rise in Sikeston Area

With the national unemployment rate reaching a high of five per cent more people are filing unemployment insurance claims.

New claims started in the Sikeston area in May, 1970, reached the 1,324 mark, as compared to 765 new claims for the same period last year, said Leon Garnet, manager of the state employment service.

Garnet said that the average unemployment insurance payment is $47. How long an unemployed person receives benefits is determined by length of former employment and the amount of wages he received.

Benefits can be received only if the business for which the wage earner worked was covered by the unemployment security law of Missouri.

Under this law, those persons employed in agriculture, horticulture, or non-profit organizations are not covered by unemployment insurance.

In order for a person to file a valid claim, he must have worked in the Missouri under a covered employer, and must have earned $15 in each of the 17 weeks during Missouri's base period. At present Missouri's base period is 1969.

"Our claim load has been considerably heavier in April and May than previously," commented Mr. A. J. Layton, claims supervisor.

Not only are more people filing unemployment insurance claims, but, surprisingly, more people are being placed in job positions.

"During the first four months of 1970, 2,072 persons applied for work at our office. We had 598 completed placements, and that's a high number," commented Garnet.

"Usually, we find it difficult to place more than one-fourth of our applicants. Remember, that is 598 new workers, and the jobs have to be available," he continued.

"A sizeable number of young folks are looking for summer or part-time employment now, but, lacking job experience, they have problems getting jobs," Garnet said.

Appliances Stolen from Topp House

Police reported a refrigerator, electric range, dish washer and an electric heater were stolen during the past three months from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Topp, 400 Tanner.

The theft was reported Wednesday. The Topp's have been away.

Entry apparently was made through a sliding patio door.

Bike, Hub Caps

Stolen in Sikeston

Mrs. L. L. Leroux, 521 Malcolm, reported to police this morning her son's bicycle had been stolen.

Reggie Dodd, 423 William, reported to police Tuesday four hub caps were stolen from his car.

Family Planning

Application Made

MALDEN — The Bootheel comprehensive health council has endorsed a family planning application to be made for this area.

When funded, the grant, for $35,000 will be used to provide family planning services in the district for six months.

This will be a pilot program. It would be the first research and demonstration grant to be made for this work in the United States.

Tax Return Processing Completed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri income tax returns have all been processed and final tax payments were deposited Wednesday.

James E. Schaffner, director of revenue, said the job was done in record time. He asked for an apology from politicians who charged that the tax work by his department had been delayed.

"Today's final deposit totaled $1,144,242," Schaffner said, "and income tax deposits for the fiscal year have totaled $163,272,067."

The department still has to audit the returns and make the necessary refunds," he said. About 1.8 million tax returns are involved.

The task was completed in record time, "the earliest date in the history of the department," according to Schaffner. The work was expedited so records for the fiscal year ending June 30 would reflect tax revenue owed to and received by the state.

During the recent special legislative session, Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, and others charged revenue was being withheld deliberately in order to make the state's financial picture look bad.

Sentence Suspended in Mother Beating Case

BENTON — A six-month suspended jail sentence was imposed Wednesday in magistrate court against Phillip Gardner, 51, of Oran, who pleaded guilty earlier this year to beating his mother.

Gardner appeared before Judge M. E. Montgomery yesterday on another charge of beating his mother. His mother appeared on his behalf, saying her son didn't know what he was doing when he beat her. She pleaded that he be set free. The judge did not follow her recommendation. Gardner pleaded innocent to the new charge. The case was continued.

Herbert W. Brown, 104 Sixth, Sikeston, waived preliminary hearings on two felony charges of writing bad checks. He is scheduled to appear June 25 in circuit court.

David Copeland of Cape Girardeau was fined $75 was given a suspended 60-day sentence for speeding on the condition he pay his fine and surrender his driver's license 10 days.

Living Cost Rise Slows Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rise in living costs of four-tenths of one per cent last month added to the nation's worst inflationary spiral in twenty years but a government official said there has been a "significant" slowing of the pace of price hikes in recent months.

Costs of all major categories were up, with transportation and clothing posting the largest price hikes in May, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The bureau figured the May rise at five-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis for the fourth straight month, because food prices rose instead of dropping as usual in May.

"The rate has come down from the six-tenths of one per cent rate of November, December, and January," said Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the bureau.

"It has come down to five-tenths of one per cent monthly changes, which is significant," he said of the past four months.

He added that the four-tenths actual rise in May was more significant to consumers because it reflected prices they had to pay, while the seasonal figure of five-tenths was of more interest to economic analysts.

The May increase boosted the government's Consumer Price Index to 134.6, meaning it cost $134.6 last month for every $100 worth of typical family spending in the 1967-69 period on which the index is based. The four-tenths of one per cent rise was the smallest since last January, when it was also four-tenths but figured seasonally as a six-tenths rise.

The bureau also reported that some 45 million rank and file workers gained $1.05 a week to an average pay check of $118.72 weekly in May because of a two-cent hourly rise in pay and a slightly longer work week.

The bureau said food prices rose three-tenths of one per cent, housing and medical care five-tenths of one per cent each, clothing six-tenths of one per cent, and transportation eight-tenths of one per cent.

The report said the May rise was less than April because of smaller price hikes for most services and for commodities other than food.

Prices of food and consumer

durable goods accelerated from April, it said.

The May report said living costs were 6.2 per cent above a year earlier, continuing the more than 6 per cent annual rate of climb that has prevailed for more than a year.

"Charges for consumer services in May showed their smallest monthly rise since late last year. Price increases for nearly all the important groups of services were noticeably smaller than in recent months," the bureau said.

"Used car prices rose sharply in May, 5.3 per cent, and were largely responsible for the one per cent contraservice increases for durables. House prices rose more rapidly than in recent months and were almost important in the advance. New car prices declined seasonally," it said.

"Food prices, which usually decline in May, were up," the report said.

"Prices of poultry and eggs fell less than seasonally and prices of fruits, vegetables and dairy products rose more than usual for May," the report added.

But prices of restaurant meals and other goods consumed away from home slowed from April's pace, it said.

About 123,200 workers with cost-of-living clauses in their labor contracts will receive wage increases based on the May report, figured over varying periods of time.

These include some 72,000 aerospace workers who will receive an eight cent pay an hour hike for the past year's rise in the living cost index.

Another 2,000 workers will get increases ranging from 8 to 23 cents based on the price hikes over the year and some 2,000 machinery industry workers will get 9 cents for the rise in prices since last November.

Other workers who will get increases ranging from three to six cents an hour include those in farm equipment, chemical, shipbuilding, bakery and retail sales industries.

Another 43,300 workers with cost-of-living escalator clauses will get no further pay increases because of the May increase, because they have already reached the maximum in cost-of-living pay provided in their contracts.

Egypt Admits Higher Than Usual Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cairo admitted today that Israeli artillery killed 15 Egyptian soldiers and wounded seven Wednesday along the Suez Canal. It was one of the highest Egyptian military tolls reported since the 1967 war, though higher civilian casualties have been claimed.

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said the Israelis opened fire in the morning and kept it up intermittently into the afternoon. There was no report on this action from Israel.

Egypt struck back today with an air raid on two Israeli fortifications along the central sector of the canal, the Israeli command announced. It said there were no Israeli casualties.

It was the second Egyptian air strike across the canal in as many days. The Israelis fly daily sorties against Egyptian positions on the west side of the Israeli planes, attacked throughout the day Wednesday. Cairo claimed one plane was shot down, but the Israelis said all returned safely.

The Israeli command also reported that its troops killed three Arab infiltrators Wednesday night on the occupied Golan Heights of Syria. Tel Aviv said the infiltrators carried AK47 rifles, mines and sabotage materials. No Israeli casualties were reported.

Arab guerrillas in Lebanon said Wednesday that they had killed 28 Israeli troops in ground actions over the past three days. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in a communique issued in Beirut that 10 of the Israelis were killed by mines on a military road at Mt. Hermon, north of the Golan Heights. There was no confirmation of the claim from the Israelis.

King Hussein of Jordan told a news conference in Amman that the fighting last week between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops was the most anxious and difficult time of his life.

"We felt we were moving through a mine field," he said. "I have done my utmost to prevent the complete destruction of everything I have achieved."

The king spoke with reporters in his palace for the first time since the fighting erupted. About 1,000 persons were killed or wounded, and the fighting did not end until Hussein fired two top army commanders as demanded by the guerrillas.

Hussein also said the crisis "had a foreign origin—of that there can be no doubt." But he did not blame any countries by name and did not repeat guerrilla allegations that the week of bloodshed was the result of a plot by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

A Palestinian source in Beirut reported that Hussein toured Jordanian front-line positions Tuesday and told an infantry unit that he wanted to annihilate left-wing guerrillas.

Intimidation Bids Reported In

Manson Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An attorney says attempts are being made to intimidate Linda Kasabian, a young mother expected to be the prosecution's main witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

Gary Fleischman, who represents Mrs. Kasabian, said she had received letters from members of Charles Manson's hippie-type "family" urging her not to testify.

The lawyer told newsmen one letter warned his 2-year-old client "there is no real immunity"—a reference to the prosecution's reported plan to let Mrs. Kasabian go free after she testifies in the current trial.

Manson is on trial with three followers in the bizarre slayings of Miss Tate and six others last August.

Mrs. Kasabian, also charged in the slayings but granted a separate trial, made a surprise court appearance Wednesday and waived her right to a speedy trial.

When military strongman President Juan Carlos Onganía was forced to resign in Argentina on June 8, it was by no great popular rebellion. True, the general had become vastly unpopular during four years of rule, but when he was ousted it was his former military comrades who made the decision that he had to go.

Onganía himself had been named president following a military coup in 1966 that ousted elected President Arturo Illia. Shortly after he took over, Onganía fired the elected governors of Argentina's 22 provinces and appointed political allies to replace them. He dissolved the congress and started rule by presidential decree. And, since the assassination of a powerful labor leader about a year ago, Argentina has been ruled under a state of seige.

Argentina is the rule rather than the exception in Latin America. While Fidel Castro holds total control over Cuba, military strongmen also hold sway in Peru, Haiti, Brazil, Panama, Bolivia, Paraguay and Nicaragua.

Peru is governed by Gen. Juan Velasco Alvarado, who took power in a military coup in 1968, ousting constitutionally elected President Fernando Belaúnde Terry. Since he has taken power, Velasco has nationalized a number of industrial concerns, including several owned by American firms, and has leveled repressive measures against the Peruvian press. The Castro government in Cuba, while not yet ready to establish relations with Peru, has said it is keeping a sympathetic eye on the government's "revolutionary methods."

Haiti is run by Dr. François "Papa Doc" Duvalier with an iron fist and country-wide fear of his secret police, nicknamed the "Ton-Ton Macoute," or Machete Uncles. In a recent abortive coup attempt, a number of coast guard vessels fired shells at the presidential palace in the rundown capital of Port-au-Prince before fleeing to Sea. Asked what he thought led to the short-lived rebellion, Duvalier replied that the dissident coast guardsmen probably were crazy.

Brazil's leader is Gen. Emilio Garrastazu Médici, who was named by military leaders in October, 1969, to replace the ailing former president, retired Army Marshal Arthur da Costa e Silva. The idea of an elective presidency was laid to rest in Brazil in April, 1964, when Joao Goulart was ousted in a military coup. Rebels against the military regime in Brazil have complained they are subject to brutal torture if they are captured by the authorities.

In Panama, the recently installed president and head of the military junta is Demetrio B. Lakas. But the real strongman behind the scenes is Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera, who was ousted and regained power within 24 hours last December. Torrijos has forbidden exit from Panama for 10 men who advocated a return to constitutional rule.

Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia is the strongman in Bolivia. He took over in a bloodless coup last September after Luis Adolfo Siles succeeded former President Rene Barrientos Ortuño, who was killed in a plane crash. Under the Ovando government, American-owned operations have been seized by the government.

In Paraguay, Gen. Alfredo Stroessner has ruled since he seized power in 1954. He was re-elected in 1958, 1963 and 1968. In the latter two elections, opposition candidates were allowed for the first time since 1928. The Roman Catholic Church in Paraguay has accused Stroessner of running a dictatorship and has called on him to bring political prisoners to trial and restore freedom of the press, which is nonexistent in Paraguay.

Nicaragua, ruled by Gen. Anastasio Somoza Debayle, is another Latin American nation where there is no freedom of the press.

House Spurs Bid to Block Postal Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has defeated efforts to block reform of the Post Office Department and approved a measure banning compulsory union membership for mailmen.

An amendment by Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., to kill the reform plan, grant workers an 8 per cent pay raise and fire striking postal workers was defeated Wednesday 105-57.

The House then amended the bill to create an independent, self-supporting U. S. Postal Service, raise pay 8 per cent, and permit each worker to decide whether to join a union.

Opponents of the ban against compulsory union membership said it would throw the balance of power in pay negotiations to management and supercede state union laws.

But Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said the balance of power would be thrown to the union, which with compulsory membership would have "enormous political clout" over management in pay negotiations.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said the House-approved ban "for the first time will reach the long arm of the federal government" into the 39 states that permit compulsory unionism and exempt mailmen from state laws.

The vote on the amendment by Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., was 179 to 95.

Conflict Over Cause of Arthritis
And Whether Reader Really Reads!

Dear Ann Landers: I have just written to the publisher of the paper asking him to fire you. I am sure he will receive many other such letters. I work for the National Arthritis Foundation and I am incensed by your statement that arthritis is caused by gonorrhea. You have insulted every arthritic in the country. I don't see how you have held your job so long making such crazy statements as that. Do you write your column with a bottle of gin by the typewriter? Don't you have an editor who reads your stuff before they fire you that you will at least apologize -- Boiling Over

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman in my mid 50's and have reared three children. I worked before the children were born and I made good money. I quit when our last child entered high school.

It's a pleasure not to set an alarm clock. I love staying at home and doing as I please. But my husband will not let me alone. He says I am lazy and stupid for piddling away my time. He has made me feel like a leech because I am not bringing in money. He is forever reading ads to me -- "Help wanted, Female." Twice I have received calls from agencies which he undoubtedly "arranged." My husband is an executive and we are not hard up for money. I have never been a big spender and am more conservative than most women in our crowd. I do my own hair. We have no maid in the house. I don't mind an occasional part-time job, but I don't want steady work. Is this wrong? -- Fiscal Fracas Without End

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who would like to respond to your suggestion that teens should respect their parents and accept responsibility. I couldn't agree more, but how can teens respect their parents when they don't respect us and they don't give us any responsibility?

How is a kid supposed to know what respect is when his parents yell at him all the time, never give him a chance to explain anything, criticize him from morning till night -- never a compliment or a word of encouragement. How are we supposed to know what responsibility is if everything is done for us and we aren't even allowed to make decisions vital to our lives? If a kid's parents won't give him respect and responsibility, who can he turn to? -- Illinois Gripe

'The Kids Say
Their Mother
Is A Mailman'

by donna
 Ann Phelps has been with the Sikeston Post Office two and one half months. She says the work is about the hardest she has done in her adult life, but that she really likes it.

Mrs. Phelps is the mother of one daughter, now a college student, and two sons, a 15 year old whom she describes as her "beat musician," and a six year old.

They are residents of Malden, but are planning to move to Sikeston in the near future.

Mrs. Phelps was tax collector for the city of Malden prior to the civil service appointment which designates her as a "temporary indefinite" employee. This simply means Mrs. Phelps is temporarily appointed to the Postal department. She will be eligible for permanent appointment when a position opens. The "indefinite" means she may be assigned to any position in the post office, letter carrying, clerical work (sorting mail, selling stamps) for example.

Bob Gibson was firing bullets but fortunately for San Diego, one of his blazing missiles misfired, saving the Padres the embarrassment of being no-hit victims for the second time within a week.

Ivan Murrell was the minihero of the Padres, exploding a two-out eighth inning single—the only hit-off the overpowering St. Louis right-hander, who faced only two batters as the Cardinals routed San Diego 8-0 Wednesday night.

In other National League action, Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Atlanta nipped Montreal 6-5, Cincinnati stopped the New York Mets 7-4, Chicago belted San Francisco 6-1 and Philadelphia whipped Houston 4-2.

In the American League, Milwaukee dropped Baltimore 5-1, Boston trimmed Kansas City 3-1, Washington edged Minnesota 3-1, Chicago topped New York

6-3 and Detroit socked Oakland 9-7. The California at Cleveland contest was postponed by rain.

Only five nights earlier, Dock Ellis of the Pirates tossed the season's only no-hitter, blanking the Padres 2-0.

And Gibson, the 34-year-old, four-time 20-game winner, now 8-3 after reeling off his sixth consecutive victory, appeared on his way to the first no-hitter of his brilliant career.

Only one ball was hit hard, a liner in the fifth by Ron Slocum, but it was right at first baseman Rich Allen, until Murrell drilled a sharp grounder over second base and into center field in the eighth.

Gibson, the NL's Cy Young Award and Most Valuable Player while leading the Cards to the 1968 pennant, finished with 13 strikeouts and walked only two batters. One was wiped out on a double play.

The Omaha, Neb., native had come close once before, limiting Philadelphia to a lone hit in 1965. Jose Cardenal backed Gibson's performance, stroking three doubles, scoring twice and driving in a pair of runs. Gibson also delivered two run-scoring singles and lowered his ERA to 3.76 while upping his strikeouts to 126 in 107 2/3 innings, second in the league to Tom Seaver's 129.

Claude Osteen, bagging his ninth victory, staggered for five innings, allowing the Pirates six of their seven hits before handing Pittsburgh its second straight shutout loss.

The loser was Ellis, making his first start since his no-hitter against the Padres. The fastballing right-hander retired the first 10 Dodger hitters before Manny Mota singled. Wes Parker then drove in Mota and Los Angeles added a pair of runs in the sixth on run-scoring hits by Andy Kosco and Bill Grabarkewitz.

Gil Garrido drilled an eighthinning triple and came home on Rico Carty's single as the Braves came from behind to stop the Expos.

Montreal led 4-0 before Braves starter Jim Nash ripped a two-run homer. Mike Lum's two-run double in the seventh tied it for Atlanta at 5-5 before Carty's game winner. Jim Gosger homered for the Expos.

Pinch hitter Hal McRae lined a run-scoring single to cap a three-run ninth as the Reds rallied for their victory, snapping the Mets' winning streak at four games.

Lee May's 15th homer of the season—a two-run shot—had tied it in the eighth. John Bench added his 21st of the year for the Red while Tommie Agee and Cleon Jones homered for New York.

Ernie Banks slammed a three-run blast and Paul Popovich a solo homer while Jim Hickman contributed a two-run double in the Cubs' triumph.

Ken Holtzman, 33, posted his fifth consecutive victory, holding the Giants to seven hits, including Willie Mays' 15th homer. Mays also cracked a single, pulling him within 20 hits of the exclusive 3,000-hit club.

Deron Johnson rapped a pair of doubles, driving in the deciding run and setting up an insurance marker in the Phillies' victory.

TOM DAWSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dawson of Sikeston, won the senior division of the Cape Girardeau Jaycee golf tournament last week, shooting a 74 on the 72 par course. Tom was a member of the Sikeston high school golf team that won the district and placed in the state competition at Columbia this year. His father, Gene, is the pro at the country club.

ATLANTA (AP) — Frank Meuli, saying he once was the "lone voice in the wilderness," claims he has enough votes to kill a merger of the National Basketball Association with the American Basketball Association.

The owner of the San Francisco Warriors here for the two day meeting of the NBA's Board of Governors, said Wednesday that there were seven negative votes in the most recent merger vote by the owners. It takes only five votes to kill a merger.

"All I have to do is keep my seven little men together," said Meuli, who has the NBA rights to two stars now with ABA teams Rick Barry of Washington and ZELMO Beaty of Los Angeles.

"Then there will either be no merger or one with conditions that are more favorable to the NBA than right now," he said.

The board was scheduled to discuss a merger at today's session.

However, a U.S. District Court in New York issued an injunction last May forbidding the leagues to merge. The injunction came in a suit filed by the NBA Players Association.

The court did, however, permit the two leagues to formulate plans to submit to Congress, which must first grant permission for a merger. Then the matter would go back to the court and actual merger provisions couldn't be agreed upon until favorable disposition of the suit.

If that stage is ever reached, the NBA determined at least one merger condition in the aftermath of the Ralph Simpson signing hassle.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said the NBA would insist that the ABA agree not to sign college players before their class graduated.

The Denver Rockets of the ABA announced Tuesday the signing of Simpson, a star at Michigan State who had two years eligibility remaining.

However, ABA Commissioner Jack Dolph said Wednesday he would reject the Simpson contract and fine Denver $10,000 if the contract reached his office.

Dolph's statement came after the National Collegiate Athletic Association urged its members and coaches to invoke an immediate boycott on the ABA because of the Simpson accident.

"The NBA has operated for 25 years under a rule prohibiting the signing of a player until the graduation of his class, Kennedy said.

"Action of this nature certainly cannot help, and might hurt, Congressional approval of a merger."

City League

Pitchers still held the upper hand in City League baseball action as a number of two and three hitters were hurled around the circuit last night.

A pitching duel between Stokes and Blankenship of the Bank of Sikeston ended with the Bank claiming a 3-1 win behind Blankenship's two-hitter. Stokes allowed but three hits, all in the first two innings when the bank scored its runs.

The second game of the Jr. Babe Ruth league at Bob Ralph field saw Turner Dairy out slug Anchor Toy 7-6 but lose the game 8-3.

SEVENTH IN A WEEKLY SERIES ON HITTING Expos Slugger Advises To Concentrate In Drills

By RUSTY STAUB
Of the Montreal Expos
Written for AP Newsfeatures
I'd like to advise youngsters who have a desire to become major leaguers to take constant practice and give practice all the concentration possible.

RUSTY STAUB

In batting they should work on good solid contact. They must not try to overpower the ball. Get a good pitch to hit.

If you think along these lines in workouts everything will fall in line when the game starts.

There are three people I want to satisfy in the game of baseball. One of them is myself. I always try to improve on what I'm doing. Secondly, I'd like to please our manager, Gene Mauch, because those who play for him have so much respect for him.

Third is not one person in particular. It's the public because they pay good money to come to the ball park. If I fill the first two desires I've got the third one made.

I agree that with kids too much emphasis is placed on winning. As a youngster you should put emphasis on the enjoyment of the game. You play to have fun. As you get older you will realize the importance of winning and of being a team man.

In the major leagues we play to win and there are many situations where we'd like to blast the ball out of the park. But you can't always do that. For instance, with the winning run on first or second and none out usually it is the next batter's job to bunt and try to move that runner along into a better position, especially if one run is needed to tie or win.

If a long ball is needed I try to hit the long ball. Often I'll concede the pitcher the ball low and away and over part of the strike zone. I may even concede him two strikes to get my kind of pitch, a pitch that I can pull a long way.

Visit to Arrow Rock Like Entering Doorway to the Past

ARROW ROCK, Mo. (AP)— "This is where the Santa Fe Trail began. French map-makers called it 'Pierre a Fleche' because the Indians used the bluff from its Missouri River bluffs for their arrows."

Historian David D. Thompson Jr., in dedicating a National Historic Landmark plaque at Arrow Rock said, "The places where history was made are doorways to the past. This village is 'a living historical monument.'"

The village of Arrow Rock is 13 miles north of Interstate 70 on Missouri highway 41 west of Booneville. Its population reached a peak of just over 1,000 in 1860 when the ferry crossing from Boone's Lick to Arrow Rock was a major east-west route across the state into Indian Territory and Santa Fe. Today the village is inhabited by about 130 permanent residents.

Main street is paved but as you step across the gutters, made of cut stone standing on end 18 to 20 inches in height, you step through "doorways to the past."

Some of the homes and a few of the business buildings are original structures, erected by frontier prisoners of the early and mid-1800s. The Old Tavern, built in 1834, provided overnight guests until the 1940s and its dining room has never been closed.

Most of these buildings have been restored and furnished with priceless relics and antiques—The Old Tavern, The Old Courthouse, the John P. Sites Gun Shop, the United Church of Christ, Federated Church, and the homes of Dr. Charles M. Bradford, Dr. Matthew Hall, and George Caleb Bingham, the internationally famous frontier and political artist.

The Santa Fe spring used by the traders and western travelers of more than 150 years ago still flows, steps leading from the old ferry landing and the steamboat wharf are still in use.

Built in the 1830s, the old Seminary Building now serves as the residence for Arrow Rock Park superintendent Robert Stith and his family.

The 42-acre park adjoins the southern edge of the village and extends to the limestone bluffs. It has excellent facilities for picnicking and tent and trailer camping.

Other prominent residents of its past included three Missouri governors, M. M. Marquette, his son John S. Marquette, and Claiborne P. Jackson, all of whom died in office.

Arrow Rock also was the home of Dr. John Sappington who pioneered in the use of quinine and is credited with conquering malaria in the Mississippi Basin area. The French mapmakers noted "Pierre a Fleche" in 1723 but it wasn't until Lewis and Clark began their westward journeys in 1804 that Arrow Rock found real favor.

George Sibley established a trading post at Arrow Rock in 1812 and in 1817 the ferry crossing from Boone's Lick became a permanent operation. The last of a long succession of ferry boats, the Santa Fe, with a capacity of 7 to 10 cars, made its last crossing of the Missouri here in 1927.

How do you keep the "doorways to the past" open? First, the permanent residents helped themselves and then in 1912 the Missouri Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, furnished The Old Tavern with some period furniture and historical objects "as a means of teaching Missouri history to passersby."

The DAR then appealed to the Missouri Legislature and in 1923 the state purchased the Old Tavern. The DAR was named custodian to preserve and

Next 80 Years May See World Population Tripled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Unless current trends change the world 80 years hence will have three persons for every one now living.

That is the projection of the U.N. secretariat, presented in a background paper to help a committee of experts suggest new studies on the relationships between population trends and economic development.

The paper says the world is "faced with the high probability that, if present trends continue, the inhabitants of the planet may outnumber 11 billion as early as the middle of the 21st century."

And finally, there's one other device employed to keep the "doorways of the past" open.

The auctioneer's gavel at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 20, will open the 11th annual auction of antiques, china, glass, books and bric-a-brac in Arrow Rock State Park.

Sponsored by the Friends of Arrow Rock, the auction — rain or shine — is held under a large tent and this year will include a collection of nearly 1,000 shoes dating to 1750, antique furniture from the James estate at St. James, and items from Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes and other state and national officials.

The shoe collection was started by the late Charles E. Osterkamp, an executive of International Shoe Co., in St. Louis. It includes bearskin slippers worn by companions of Daniel Boone on a wilderness trip, slippers worn by the late movie actress Constance Moore in a movie with Eddie Cantor, and those worn by the late John Cardinal Glennon when he appeared in Rome to be made a Cardinal.

All of the proceeds of the auction are used for restoration and preservation of historic sites and buildings in Arrow Rock, "pathways of study where historical knowledge and inspiration can be found."

that, even though the growth rate may continue to decline, "the annual increments in population will continue to become larger."

The paper says the prospect of 11 billion human beings by 2060 may prompt reconsideration of the idea of stabilizing the world's population by somehow achieving a zero growth rate. But for the moment, it remarks, that idea is highly hypothetical.

In most developing countries, it says, high population growth "tends to increase the numbers of those segments of the population—illiterate, unskilled, agricultural, rural and the like—that were characteristic of premodern societies. Thus such growth 'is conducive to perpetuating economic backwardness, low productivity and inadequate living conditions.'"

"However," the paper says, "in view of the modest achievements of these programs, there is a growing appreciation that family planning alone cannot bring fertility to an adequate level, and that economic and social change has to pave the way for fertility control."

Today's aluminum industry production is more than 10 billion pounds a year. This is almost 13 times the rate of about 20 years ago.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says 32,165,573 tons passed through McAlpine and Lock 52 near Paducah, Ky., both on the Ohio River, handle a combined tonnage annually almost equal to that of the Panama Canal.

Soybean Price Supports Show Little Change

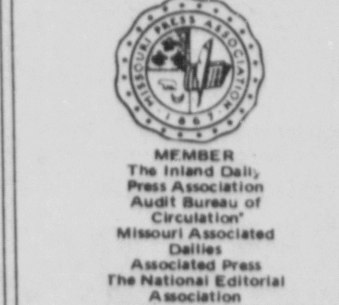

WASHINGTON (AP) — County rates for government price supports on 1970-crop soybeans mostly will be unchanged from last year but some areas will have slight adjustments, says the Agriculture Department.

Price supports will be based on the national average of $2.25 per bushel for No. 1 grade soybeans, the same as last year. Farmers in some areas of the southeast—including many counties in Georgia, Florida and Alabama—will be eligible for slightly higher supports, boosts ranging from 1 to 3 cents per bushel.

This was done as a result of new processing mills in the area and strong market prices the department said.

A few counties in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area of Minnesota were increased one cent per bushel to reflect their location near water transportation, and parts of central and eastern Illinois were lowered one cent "to make them more comparable" with rates in adjacent areas, the department said.

Special Session Left More Problems Than It Solved

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's special legislative session, the third since last September, left more problems up in the air than it solved.

When the regular six-month session convenes next January, it faces a mountainous pile of unsolved problems and most of them spell political trouble.

The big one, of course, is revenue — where to get the money to pay for the big backlog of needs which have been building up since the state started running out of money last year.

This time the Legislature adopted a bare bones budget giving state agencies and institutions no more than they got for the 1969-70 year. Actually that means cuts for most of them because of continuing inflation.

The Legislature also was able to rely on some one-shot income from speeded up collection of sales taxes, something that won't be available next year.

The backlog of building needs alone is enough to frighten anyone, let alone the legislators who will have to dig up the money.

No new buildings were authorized by the 1969 Legislature and only two by the special session just ended — $4 million for a new medical school at Kansas City and $4.5 million for a replacement chemistry building at the U.M.—Rolla campus. A start also was authorized on a new maximum security prison but no construction funds were voted. Now every college, university and hospital is crying for millions of dollars worth of new buildings. The total is staggering and costs keep going up.

One solution, which has received scant support so far, would be a big capital improvements bond issue for a long range building program.

Another, suggested recently by Sen. A. B. B. Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, would be a 2-cent increase in the state sales tax, with revenue from one cent earmarked for buildings over a five-year period to produce some $500 million.

After the voters overwhelmingly rejected an income tax increase in the April 7 referendum election, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes predicted it would be 18 months before the Legislature would be able to pass any new revenue measures.

All signs indicate now that the legislators elected this fall will have to grapple with the problem in the 1971 session. By that time, the needs put off in the 1970-71 austerity budget are expected to cause a big enough clamor to force some action.

For example, the special session cut Medicaid matching funds by $3 million, causing a corresponding loss in federal funds.

Welfare director Proctor N. Carter and comptroller John C. Vaughn, the budget director, already have started discussions of whether this money can be restored in an emergency appropriation when the Legislature meets in January. Such an allotment would take more money than is in sight now.

As if the pressing money problems were not enough to cause legislative worry, the 1971 assembly also will face the prickly political problems involved in redistricting brought about by the 1970 census.

All congressional and legislative districts will have to be realigned on a one-man-one-vote basis — always a political quagmire.

The special session bypassed some problems temporarily but they will be waiting for solution in 1971. They're not going to go away.

For example, a comprehensive drug abuse law recommended by the governor was first watered down in the House then abandoned because there was neither time nor money enough to handle it on a comprehensive basis.

Experts in the field told the legislators the drug problem is already epidemic in some areas of the nation and is getting worse all the time in Missouri. Everyone agrees the present laws are inadequate.

Similarly, the governor asked the Legislature to extend the merit system to the Division of Liquor Control and the Public Service Commission on a trial basis but even this modest proposal went down the drain. Instead the Legislature asked the Governor to set up a special study committee to examine changes in welfare laws. The shape of the federal system is not yet determined, but the broad federal changes proposed would have an immediate impact on Missouri's welfare programs.

A special legislative and citizens' committee also is trying to develop some kind of a plan to preserve Missouri's scenic rivers after Ozark landowners forced withdrawal of an initiative proposal sponsored by canoeists and conservationists.

The goal is to get something ready in time for consideration by the 1971 Legislature.

If the voters, as predicted by many, reject a 1969 pension law for legislators and state employees, the 1971 session also will have to wrestle with that again.

Aside from the legislative problems, another leadership battle appears to be shaping up in the Senate.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, was ousted as President Pro Tem last January after a year of one man rule and Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, was elected to replace him.

Patterson is expected to be opposed for the job in the new general assembly by Sen. William B. Waters, D-Liberty. For majority floor leader, Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, is being talked about as a challenger of Vanlandingham.

Four of the 34 senators are retiring this year and the successors could play a key role in this internal fight.

At this point only one prediction is safe: everything the 1971 Legislature does will hinge on the overriding issue of revenue.

College Series

Reaches Showdown

OMAHA (AP) — After a five-day grind in mostly 90-degree temperatures, the double elimination College World Series reached a showdown stage Wednesday with three unbeaten teams remaining in the original field of eight.

Second-ranked Texas 39-7 will meet No. 3 Florida State 48-8 Wednesday at 8 p.m. CDT. The winner will face No. 1 Southern California 50-13 at the same time Thursday for the championship. The Trojans drew a Wednesday bye.

The windup includes teams backed by previous world series experience. Texas is in its 14th appearance and won in 1949 and 1950 to be the only club ever to take successive titles. Florida State is here for the fifth time with a previous best showing being fourth place in 1962. USC has made the big show 12 times and won it five, the last in 1968.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson said he would start senior right-hander James Street 8-1 Wednesday night. Street, quarterback of Texas' national football championship, has been nursing a pulled groin muscle and in a start Sunday against Ohio U. He lasted two innings, striking out four, before being hampered.

Jack Stallings of Florida State is expected to counter with unbeaten Gene Amman, junior righthander, who has 14 victories. He made his world series debut with a remarkable 0.60 earned run average Saturday and fired a two-hitter to blank Arizona 4-0.

Texas blew a 7-1 lead in losing to USC 8-7 in 4th innings Tuesday night and absorbed its first series defeat. The game was only one inning short of a tourney record.

In the first game, Florida State eliminated Ohio U. 2-0.

Atomic Power

Price Hike Runs Into Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Nixon administration proposal to hike the price of atomic fuel has drawn stiff congressional opposition on grounds it could raise electric bills for everyone who owns a light bulb and lead to a private monopoly of nuclear energy.

The complex issue concerns the administration's proposed 10 per cent increase for uranium enrichment services, presently performed exclusively by the Atomic Energy Commission.

"You'll see the price go up on every kilowatt of power in the United States," Chairman Chet Holifield, D-Calif., said Monday at a hearing of the Senate House Joint Atomic Energy Committee.

"Not only is this inflationary in itself, but ... it sets a horrible example for every other industry," said Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

The AEC argued the cost hike would justify establishment of a model plant to provide private industry with the know-how to enrich uranium.

The Atomic Energy commissioners, who already have approved the hike, added the price boost could be justified on grounds of increased costs.

Holifield and others charged the model plant concept eventually would lead to the private takeover of the three government-owned plants now performing the task.

The three plants are located at Paducah, Ky., Portsmouth, Ohio, and Oakridge, Tenn. One of these presumably would be used to instruct industry technicians on the procedure.

"You are only justifying a higher profit image for the transfer of the plants to private ownership," said Holifield. He called the model plant proposal a stalking horse for industry, with the taxpayer paying for the education of the nuclear energy industry.

Additionally, Gore and Holifield said the new price level would encourage coal and oil producers, to raise prices. Coal and oil also are used to fire electrical generators.

AEC Commissioner Dr. Theos Thompson said he did not envision selling the three plants to private industry "now or in the near future."

AEC Commissioner Wilfred Johnson urged establishment of a model plant to begin now because it has been decided sometime in future "there should be an apparatus for private industry to participate."

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said several firms have indicated a consortium might be interested in buying the government installations.

New Trial for Lamb Rejected

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Motions for a new trial and for deferment of the sentence of Thomas Preston Lamb were overruled in Johnson County Court Tuesday and the convicted kidnaper and murderer was taken to the Kansas Penitentiary at Lansing to begin serving three consecutive life sentences.

Earlier this month, Lamb, 29, of Fort Scott, Kan., was convicted by Judge Harold R. Riggs of kidnapping and murdering Miss Karen Sue Kemmerly last December. He was also convicted of kidnapping Miss Patricia Ann Childs in January.

Sheriff Fred Allenbrand said Lamb tried to attack a jailer at the county jail before being taken to the hearing. Allenbrand said Lamb was subdued before he could reach the jailer.

Former OPA Official Calls for 6-Month

Wage Price Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Kenneth Galbraith, who was second in command to the World War II Office of Price Administration, called Tuesday for a six-month freeze of wages and prices affecting especially large corporations.

Galbraith, who later served as ambassador to India and is now a professor of economics at Harvard, made his recommendation to the House Banking Committee. The panel is considering such legislation, introduced by Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex.

Galbraith said President Nixon's policies to control inflation have failed.

He said a six-month freeze should be used in working out with corporations and unions a more permanent but less drastic system of restraint and "needless to say, all of this action needs to be combined with a speedy liquidation of our adventure in Indochina."

If any of you have any old Christmas cards or old occasion cards you'd like to get rid of, we'd be glad to have them for our Art's and Crafts. Thank You.

Dear Editor:
Recently I clipped a letter published in the Commercial Appeal which pretty well expresses my feeling concerning the current effort by a considerable number of U.S. Senators to tie the hands of the President in his conduct of the Vietnam War. I quote "Liberal Senators and television commentators have joined forces with the Left Wing Lunatic fringe to make certain, if they can, that America loses the War in Vietnam."

"To make sure the attack on Cambodian Communist Sanctuaries is not successful enough to assure victory in this war, the Liberal Senators have mounted an attack in the Senate to tie the hands of the President, hereby endangering the lives of thousands of American boys in Vietnam."

"Senator Gore is so busy crying for the Leftwing students and their advisors in this country he has no tears to shed for the Americans who are brave enough to fight and die for their

If You Were the Judge

Individual Must Know If Life Insured

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.

Carol considered her husband Ben a total loss. How to convert him into a profit was Carol's problem. And, she finally figured it out. She insured his life for a bundle of money, without Ben knowing about it, and then planned to exterminate him. Naturally, like any good exterminator, she used rat poison. She sprinkled a healthy dose of it on lamb chop and fed it to her unsuspecting spouse.

As fate would have it, however, husband Ben wasn't hungry that night and gave the lamb chop to the family dog. Within minutes, the dog rolled over as if it was playing dead which surprised Ben since the dog didn't know how to play dead.

In short order, husband Ben figured out the plot and sued the insurance company for damages for issuing a life insurance policy on his life without him knowing about it.

"By giving my old lady that policy," he complained in court, "I was set up to be laid out."

"Ridiculous," responded the insurance company. "Giving a woman a policy on her husband's life is absolutely normal. What was not normal in this case was Carol's motive. But that's not our fault."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the insurance company pay for setting up Ben for extermination?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that it is against public policy to issue an insurance policy on the life of a person without his knowledge or consent. Such policies are illegal and dangerous as a fruitful source of crime. (Based upon a 1964 South Carolina Supreme Court Decision)

Massachusetts

Dean to Speak

At Cape State

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The dean of the school of education at the University of Massachusetts, Dr. Dwight W. Allen, will speak Thursday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The 38-year-old administrator will address students and faculty members at 9:20 a.m. in the auditorium of Academic Hall. The program is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Allen received his bachelor's master's, and doctor's degree from Stanford University and spent much of his professional career on the Stanford faculty before moving to his present position.

He was an instructor at Athens College in Athens, Greece, during the 1953-54 school year. Following two years in the Army and two years as a secondary school teacher, he became a research assistant in the Stanford School of Education while pursuing his doctoral studies.

In 1959, after earning his Ed.D. degree, he was a research associate for the school's secondary education project until 1962. He was promoted to assistant professor of education in 1962 and advanced to associate professor in 1965. He left the university in 1967.

Dr. Allen, who is married and the father of five children, has co-authored two books, co-edited another volume, written chapters for several books, and published numerous articles in professional periodicals.

He has also made two sets of film lectures, prepared several technical reports, and carried out a number of research projects with grants from both governmental agencies and private foundations.

Dr. Allen is a member of several professional societies, including the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Education Research Association, the National Council for the Social Studies, and the National Society for the Study of Education.

Later on this summer, on July 8, the dean of the School of Education at the University of Houston, Dr. Robert Howsam, is scheduled to speak on the campus. This will be an evening event and, the present time, is set for 8 p.m. on the east terrace of Academic Hall.

The enemy has long been convinced that by dragging along for years, as did the French, Americans will become weary and divided and pull out without achieving anything. Why not, if you disapprove the action of the Senate write your own Senators expressing your disapproval?

Sure, I am hoping for an early pull-out of our military men from Vietnam, but I see no immediate prospects for this to be possible, except to the Communist.

18-Year-Old Vote Goes to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bold bit of strategy by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has helped Congress pass a generation gap-bridging bill that lowers the voting age to 18.

By a 272-132 vote the House Wednesday accepted the 18-year-old vote provision as part of a Senate-passed bill that also continues the 1965 Voting Rights Act for five more years.

If the provision becomes law and is upheld by the courts, it would add an estimated 10 million youths between 18 and 21 to those eligible to vote in federal, state and local primary and general elections.

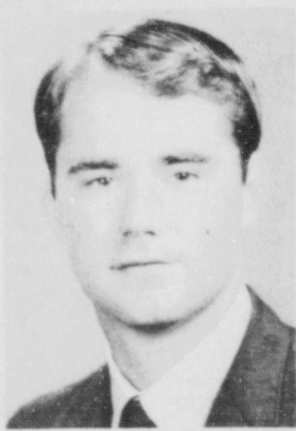

House approval sent the package to President Nixon, putting him under the same pressure that Mansfield's strategy applied to the House—accept the bill on both counts or risk further alienation of the nation's youth and its blacks.

Nixon has said he supports the 18-year-old vote, but only through a constitutional amendment, not by a simple act of Congress. He has also opposed extending the 1965 Voting Rights Act, which applies mainly to seven Southern states, on grounds it is regional legislation.

At the end of Wednesday's brief but emotional debate, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford spoke of Nixon's past opposition and raised the possibility the President might let the bill become law without signing it. There had been earlier speculation of a veto.

Civil rights groups were alarmed when the Senate, at Mansfield's insistence, tied the 18-year-old voting proposal to the bill extending the Voting Rights Act.

One of the most successful civil rights laws ever enacted, the 1965 act has resulted in adding a million Negroes to the voting rolls in seven Southern states. Its supporters feared it would be dragged under by the weight of so controversial a proposal as teen-age voting.

Particularly unhappy was Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, an ardent supporter of the Voting Rights Act but equally strong in his opposition to lowering the voting age. It was mainly to overcome Celler's opposition that Mansfield devised his strategy.

It worked to perfection Wednesday when Celler led the fight to accept the Senate bill, although still no fan of youthful voting.

Celler said there would be no way to save the Voting Rights Act from expiring in August if the House passed only the Voting Rights extension and followed the normal procedure of a House-Senate conference to wrangle over the lower voting age.

As for the 18-year-old vote, Celler said it carries a provision calling for a prompt judicial test and a review by the Supreme Court that should settle any constitutional question before January 1. In Celler's opinion the Supreme Court will find it unconstitutional.

Justice Department On Cases Heard in Circuit Court

Lookout for Campaign Violations

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Justice Department is keeping an eye peeled for violations of federal laws governing political campaign contributions, U.S. Atty. Daniel Bartlett Jr. said Monday.

Fourteen corporations last year were fined a total of $199,500 for alleged illegal political contributions, Bartlett said, adding additional indictments are expected.

"Since this is an election year, I think it is appropriate to remind those concerned with the financing of political campaigns that federal law prohibits corporations and labor organizations from making contributions or expenditures in connection with campaigns for federal office," Bartlett said.

Bartlett made the statement upon receipt of a Justice Department release sent to U.S. attorneys.

Officials Playing Down 'Inflation Alert' Phrase

WASHINGTON (AP) — of productivity—a sharp decline in the rate of increase in output per worker—was the core of the "inflation alert" portion of President Nixon's new anti-inflation plan, saying the White House won't turn its publicity spotlight on individual price-boosting companies.

And congressional reaction gave ample evidence that Nixon's Wednesday broadcast on the state of the economy will not quiet the clamor in Congress for a tougher anti-inflation clampdown.

While Republican senators generally endorsed the Nixon proposals, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien charged Nixon's productivity commission "is a blatant attempt to place the blame for inflation on the American working man while ignoring corporate pricing and profit policies."

Openly critical reactions came also from labor leaders, whose cooperation is vital to the success of any voluntary downhold on wage costs.

AFL-CIO President George Meany suggested the presidential plans might increase public education on economic issues but added:

"However, I fail to see how they will curb inflation, reduce unemployment and cut interest rates."

Emil M. Azev, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers dismissed the speech with the comment: "I wasn't impressed, but I understand the speech did wonders for the flowers and bushes around the White House."

An AFL-CIO witness before the House Banking committee attacked the Nixon economic policies today as "a combination of deepening recession and continuing inflation."

The witness, Andrew J. Biemiller, the federation's legislative director, said Nixon failed to use standby authority given him by Congress last year to establish selective credit controls.

Biemiller urged enactment of standby powers to impose ceilings on prices, wages and rents, and through tax devices to regulate profits, dividends and capital gains.

Dr. Richard S. Landry, speaking for the Chamber of Commerce, told the committee present monetary and fiscal policies are helping stabilize the economy and wage-price controls are unnecessary.

Favorable industrial comment came from Leo A. Iacocca, head of Ford's North American automotive operations. "We are pleased," he said, "by the President's emphasis on hastening conversion to a peacetime economy, his commitment to further reduction in defense spending, and his statement that costs and productivity must be brought into balance in order to achieve stable prices."

Officials emphasized the new devices did not imply any lower prices and stop the rising dissatisfaction with current monetary and fiscal restraints. "They are pointing to Nixon's provide housing. A vague comment that the government commission will not answer the would continue to rely on those, problem."

Albert added: "We still await positive action."

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said, "This latest policy is too little and too late. What are needed are standards for wage-price behavior and a temporary freeze."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said Nixon's speech reminded him of "the remarks we used to hear from President Hoover in the late 1920s and early 1930s."

"The people want real action to roll back interest rates, to lower prices and stop the rising unemployment," Patman said. "They want something done to Nixon's provide housing. A vague comment that the government commission will not answer the would continue to rely on those, problem."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate confirmed today President Nixon's nomination of Adam Thomas H. Moorer as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
